CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — "Unbelievable production" of corn created a record U.S. harvest in 1994, and huge carryovers could negate any possible spring rallies for corn this year, according to a Penn State economist.

H. Louis Moore, professor of ag economics, spoke to nearly 250 corn growers and industry representatives on Monday during the opening of the two-day Pennsylvania Crops Conference at the Embers Inn.

Moore was one of many speakers at the first annual conference that combined the meetings of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association with the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council.

Moore said that the USDA's Crop Report indicated that the country's corn harvest in 1994 totalled 10.1 billion bushels, a record. The record broke the previous one set in 1992 at 9.48 billion bushels.

Also, wheat harvest totalled

ADC Reports Strong Position

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The Atlantic Dairy Cooperative is in strong financial shape, evidenced by the refunds paid to members and extra dividends recently and according to its current financial health going into the middle of its fiscal year, according to Curtis Akers, director of ADC District 12.

During the annual banquet meeting of the Quarryville and Strasburg/Paradise locals, Akers reported on the condition of the cooperative and gave his outlook on the future.

According to Akers, predictions are for the 1995 milk price to be down slightly from 1994, and milk production to be increased.

Furthermore, with the passage of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), he said the initial years of its implementation will have a "dampening effect on milk prices."

However, he said that while the first several years of GATT will result in a lowering of the milk price, due to the opening of the U.S. market to processed dairy products, the end result should Pennsylvania is putting an increased emphasis on AM/PM DHIA testing and innovative programs to position DHIA for the next century. Recently announced changes in pricing place AM/PM plans in a more favorable light against the traditional twice a day regimen, and new experimental types of test may help some dairymen save additional money on their monthly DHIA bills.

In the last year alone, about 20 percent of DHIA members have switched from 2X programs to AM/PM programs, and the move to AM/PM hasn't slowed yet. In just the closing weeks of the year, more than a hundred herds changed testing schemes, continuing a trend that was strong throughout 1994.

"There's no doubt that AP is the wave of the future," said Dean Amick, PA DHIA's director of field services. "We're now at 2/3 of all herds on test using AP, and I wouldn't be surprised if that num-

SHREWSBURY (York Co.) — Junior members took the spotlight at the annual York County Holstein dinner and meeting, held January 13 at the Shrewsbury Fire Company meeting hall.

Milk, butterfat and protein production awards for 1994 at the county level were presented to four junior club members. Also honored were recipients of Junior All-Pennsylvania honors for both 1993 and 1994.

Snagging the bulk of the junior production awards was Brad Walker, Thomasville, winning in the three-year-old, four-year-old and aged cow categories.

Walker's aged cow, Coldsprings Levi Taffy, topped all three production categories with a lactation record of 5-10, 305 days, 30,884 pounds of milk, 1077 pounds of fat and 1002 pounds of protein. He also made a clean sweep of the three-year-old competition with Warns Sexy Lady and a 3-05, 305 day lactation of 27,129 milk, 1,038 fat and 831 protein.

In the four-year-old production competition, Walker's entry Walk-Le Marvel Skip took honors with a 4-04, 300-day total of 27,704 milk and 825 protein. Winner in the butterfat category for four-year-olds was Dar-Dale Ryan Rita, owned by Shannon Doll, Brodbecks, with a 4-06, 301-day butterfat total of 929 pounds.

White-Oak-Vu Leadman Jamaca, owned by Jacob Hushon, topped the butterfat category with a 2-03, 305-day protein total of 715 pounds.

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS
JANUARY 13, 1995
FEDERAL-STATE

Prices for whole egg and blends were unchanged, whites were lower, and yolks were generally higher. The trade sentiment was barely steady to weak on whites, steady to firm on yolks, and generally steady on the balance. Demand improved somewhat as shell egg markets firmed, but inquiry for whites remained sluggish. Floor stocks of whites were at least adequate, yolks were generally no more than adequate, and the balance of items were adequate or available. Liquid and frozen eggs processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending January 7, 1995 were 2% above last week, and 8% below the same week a year ago.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were unchanged to higher in the Midwest and Mid-Atlantic areas, unchanged elsewhere. The market tone was steady to firm. Demand covered the full range and was mostly moderate. Retail promotions continued to boost cartoned egg movement. Supplies were mostly adequate, and excess eggs were held or offered with confidence. Prices were higher for breaking stock, and supplies remained adequate for the mixed demand. Live hen offerings were at least adequate for the limited demand, and the undertone was about steady.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

JANUARY 23-29, 1995

NATIONAL PIE DAY, JANUARY 23.

A Special Gift

January 27 is the birthday of Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, English mathematician and Oxford professor. Although his scholarly works are largely forgotten, he is well-remembered as Lewis Carroll, the author of Alice's Adventures in Wonderland and Through the Looking-Glass. Dodgson hand wrote and illustrated the first manuscript and presented it as a gift to Alice Liddell, daughter of an Oxford dean. The story was later revised and expanded for publication. A trip upriver from Oxford to Godstow with Alice and her sisters, provided the inspiration for the story.

Better to be driven out from among men than to be disliked of children. — R H Dana

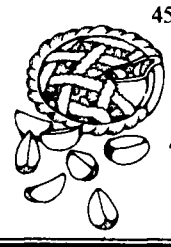
TIP OF THE WEEK

Run a wire hanger between your dress and slip to eliminate static cling.

Apples and Cream Pie

4 medium apples, peeled, cored, and sliced
1 unbaked 9" pie shell
1 cup whipping cream
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/8 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Arrange apples in pie shell. Mix together cream, flour, spices, sugar, egg, vanilla, and salt until well blended. Pour over the apples. Sprinkle with walnuts. Bake for 10 minutes at 450° F, then reduce heat to 350° F and bake until apples are tender, about 35 to 40 minutes.



Makes 6 to 8 servings.

The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

January wet, no wine you get.

A warm January, a cold May.

If the grass grows green in January, it will grow the worse for it all the year.

As the days lengthen, so the cold strengthens.

Special Offer: Handy chart full of interesting weather proverbs. Send $3 to Weather Chart, Dept. UF, The Old Farmer's Almanac, Box 520, Dublin, NH 03444

OPINION

We Wish The New Governor Well

This week Pennsylvania has a new governor. Tom Ridge was sworn into office in Harrisburg to become the state's 43rd governor.

Throughout his election campaign, Gov. Ridge made many contacts in the agriculture community, and some of the first organized support came from members of his party in agribusiness. And the new governor continued to maintain that his support of agriculture was because of the basic foundation that agriculture has for Pennsylvania's economy. His idea was that you needed to treat agriculture as a business before you can call it a way of life.

As recently as during his tour of the Farm Show last week, Gov. Ridge said his presence at the state's largest agriculture event of the year should be taken as "a commitment to restore the vitality of Pennsylvania agriculture and see to it that the men and women who work our farms and agribusiness comunity realize their full potential."

One of the major platform policies was Gov. Ridge's promise to make the Department of Environmental Resources (DER) more friendly. This caught the attention of many farmers and small business people because of their experience with this ruthless governmental regulatory agency. No other single point of reinventing government will have more effect on how farmers farm than this DER issue.

Above all, people have hope that the new adminstration can bring changes that will benefit all Pennsylvanians. "There is nothing wrong with Pennsylvania that Pennsylvanians can't fix," Gov. Ridge said.

We wish Gov. Tom Ridge well as he starts his new term of office.

Now Is The Time

To Be Aware Of Crop Insurance

A new law has made Federal Crop Insurance an integral part of USDA farm programs.

Farmers must buy at least a catastrophic level of crop insurance coverage (CAT) to be eligible for many program benefits, including commodity price support, production adjustment programs, certain Farmers Home Administration loans, and Conservation Reserve Program.

CAT coverage will compensate producers for crop losses in excess of 50 percent of their actual production history at 60 percent of the expected market price for that crop. The coverage is comparable to disaster program benefits in recent years. The new law also provides increased premium subsidies that make additional coverage more affordable.

Producers thinking about insuring spring planted crops have until March 15, 1995 to sign up. Additional coverage is generally available only from private insurance agents.

To Study Crop Insurance Costs

Framers may obtain catastrophic level of crop insurance (CAT) coverage for a nominal administrative fee of $50 per crop per county. The maximum cost for all insurable crops in a county is $200 per farmer or $600 per farmer for all counties in which there are insurable crops. CAT coverage for insurable crops is available until the sales closing date for each crop.

Sales closing dates vary by crop and region. For Pennsylvania counties, the CAT sales closing date for apples, barley, forage, grapes, peaches, and wheat is March 15, 1995.

The 1995 spring planted crops will not have additional time to sign up for insurance coverage. Remember, sales closing dates vary by crop and region so producers should consult a crop insurance agent or the local Farm Service Agency (ASCS) office to verify the sign up date and ask any questions they may have.

To Review Insurance Policies

Remember last year? Record snowfall and ice caused a lot of damage to farm property.

Frozen pipes and fallen roofs were a couple of the loses farmers experienced. However, many farmers found out too late that their insurance policy did not cover snow or ice damage.

Now would be a good time to sit down with your insurance agent and discuss your insurance coverage. A type of insurance you may want to consider is income interruption coverage. This insurance could become very valuable in making loan payments if you have a loss from fire, roof collapse, etc. and lose the use of your confinement housing.

Also, review your health, liability and life insurance coverage. In view of recent food safety claims, be sure your liability insurance covers products and animals you sell.

These insurance policies are designed to reduce the risk of you losing your farm. The amount of insurance you need depends on how much money you can afford to spend on unexpected costs and still stay in business.

TRANSFIGURATION ANYONE

January 22, 1995

Background Scripture:
Matthew 17:1-23
Devotional Reading:
2 Peter 1:16-21

Nothing in my background and education predisposed me toward the mystical or miraculous. The Pennsylvania Dutch are not particularly known for their visionary or ecstatic religious experiences. Even as a seminary student I was skeptical of those whose Christianity was not as hard-headed and practical as mine.

Nevertheless, along the way I have had a few mystical experiences that have been both transforming and ineffable. One of the most memorable of these was my call to the ministry. It happened on the old P&W high-speed trolley line between Philadelphia and Norristown, PA in my second year as a student at the University of Pennsylvania. I remember vividly the sensation of brilliant light that filled that railway car, although I was the only one to whom it was obvious.

Since then, in reading and hearing about the transformative experiences of other people, I have been intrigued with the fairly consistent theme of "light" in these experiences. It seems that whenever a person is lifted up into an awareness of God and his or her own highest self, there is an experience of supernormal light. This is particularly true in many of the accounts of the Near-Death-Experience.

SHINE AS THE SUN

The experience of a kind of divine light is significant in some of the mystical experiences in the Bible. When Moses came down from Mt. Sinai his face was seen to be bathed in a heavenly light. When Jesus was born it was the radiance of a star that guided wise men to his cradle. When He ascended a mountain — traditionally Mt. Tabor or Mt. Hermon — with three of his disciples we are told that "He was transfigured before them, and His face shone like the sun, and His garments became white as light" (15:2).

We do not have to totally understand what happened on this mountain to realize that, as far as his disciples were concerned, Jesus was in the presence of God and His appearance was temporarily altered because of it. It was as if for a moment the disciples could see Jesus in His true and ultimate nature — physical body transformed into a spiritual substance that appears to mortal eyes as heavenly light. (Paul speaks of a "resurrection body" in 1 Cor. 15.)

But the experience of Jesus on the Mount of Transfiguration is significant not only for Jesus but for us. When Peter, James and John beheld the transfigured Jesus, they caught a glimpse, not only of his destiny, but their own as well. And ours, too. No one can adequately or accurately explain what happens when we stand in the presence of God, but there is a sense of transfiguring radiance from our Creator.

A BOOTH HERE

It is understandable that Peter wanted to remain on the mountaintop and continue to dwell in the eternal light. "Lord, it is well that we are here; if you wish, I will make three booths here, one for you and one for Moses and one for Elijah." Perhaps the three disciples believed that the final age had arrived; I probably would have assumed that.

But Jesus knew that this was not yet the time and he led the dazzled disciples down from the mountain back into the valley of everyday reality where a father was waiting for healing of his epileptic boy. The divine light that they experienced on the mountaintop would be the power by which this boy was to be healed. The glimpse of eternity empowered Jesus to continue his mission in the here and now.

Call it what you will, the transfiguring mountaintop experience gives us a momentary glimpse of what God creates us to become and on the strength of that enlightenment we return to live and labor in the valley for the time being.

Brothers Pay Attention To Kind Of Corn They Plant

BONNIE BRECHBILL

McCONNELLSBURG (Fulton Co.) — A yield of 213 bushels of corn per acre made the Glenn brothers of McConnellsburg new members of the Five Acre Corn Club. Their farm is along Route 552 south in one of Fulton County's scenic valleys.
We didn't do anything special to obtain that yield, Richard Glenn said. They chisel plowed and disked then planted the seed with their four row planter on 38 inch rows using eight pounds of

The three Glenn brothers — Richard 43, Dave 39, and Mike 36 — farm in partnership about five miles south of McConnellsburg. They purchased the cows and machinery from their father, Ralph in 1977 and rent 600 acres from him. They farm a total of 770 acres and milk 137 cows.

These Corn Growers Reach 200 Bushels In National Corn Contest

Paul, seated, and son Ernest Mast check crop production records at their farm kitchen table. The Masts achieved a goal of more than 200 bushels of corn per acre in the National Corn Growers contest in the irrigated division.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor
MORGANTOWN (Berks Co.) — When you grow more than 200 bushels of corn per acre, you have a good year. That's what Paul and son Ernest Mast did this year in the National Corn Growers contest in the irrigated division. But they don't look at themselves as professional corn growers. In fact, they are probably more well known for their potatoes.
We like to get things done on time, Paul said. We think that's important. Every day your are late in planting you loose a little production. It costs as much to plant or harvest late as it does to do it on time. In fact, for harvest, it costs more. We would even hire extra help to get it done on time if we had to.
Ernest thinks another reason for good production is the rotation of crops. They never plant corn on corn because potatoes and wheat are also in their crop rotation. Sometimes they plant soybeans to increase the fertility of the soil.
With good soil fertility and enough water the Masts believe you can plant heavy populations. They average about 30,000 to 32,000 plants per acre.
The Masts have irrigation equipment for their potatoes so they also use it on their corn. But the investment would be too great for only corn. If you invest in equipment you need to use it. Paul said I don't know if I would do it just for corn but you must irrigate the higher risk crops like potatoes. I believe the quality of the crop improves with irrigation because the crop matures at the right time.
With 200 steers on feed, 30 acres of corn is put into the silos. Wheat is stored until corn harvest then sold to make room for the corn. The corn is then stored until mid-winter when the price is usually stronger.
The Masts also grow some pumpkins and have four acres of strawberries they sell retail from a roadside market along Route 23.
The farm house dates back to 67 when settlers of Welsh back round settled in the area known as the Welsh mountains. An antique corner cupboard and fireplace mantel are displayed in the Metropolitan museum of art in New York City. These priceless treasures were sold out of the house during the Great Depression to a local antique dealer to raise money to buy mules so the farming operation could continue. Jacob Mast, Paul's father, needed the money at the time. Times were hard and you did anything you could do to keep going.
As for the controversy of agriculture against the environment, Paul believes agriculture is good for the environment. This is especially evident if you are hungry. It's tough to eat a tree, he said. And chemicals cost so much you can't afford to use more than necessary. Environmentalists should know this.

ACCENT® USERS: DON'T SACRIFICE ROOTWORM CONTROL.

Now there's a way to get the superior rootworm control of COUNTER® systemic insecticide-nematicide and still use Accent post-emergence herbicide later on. How? By using COUNTER® CR™ – the controlled release formulation with the distinctive pelletized shape. A shape that delivers protection steadily – over time – for longer lasting effectiveness and more uniform insect protection. Best of all, when applied banded, COUNTER CR is labeled for use with Accent or virtually any other herbicide. So don't limit your options. Check out COUNTER CR today.

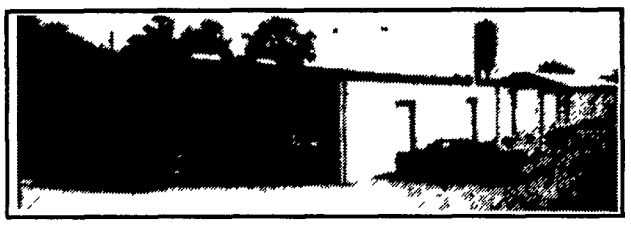
ATTENTION TOBACCO FARMERS

We Couldn't Do It Without You!



The farmers would have more money in pocket if they make all buyers buy at auctions. The buyer would like it better and do the job cheaper. With county buying and auction, one or the other will lose out. "Which one should go?"

We would like to ask farmers who signed contracts for tobacco, why can't we raise the price? "How can we raise the price when tobacco companies tell us 1/3 of tobacco is sold on contract?" This tells us that 1/3 of farmers are satisfied at $1.20 per pound.

Whatever your dairy nutrition program is missing, Crystalyx® has a supplement to fill the gap.

From birth to dry off Crystalyx brand supplements available from Agway plug the nutritional gaps in your dairy production cycle. Mineral-rich Dairy-lyx enhances feed intake and helps prevent lameness throughout the life cycle. Dry Cow for cows already in your herd aids in reducing metabolic disorders and rebreeding problems. Anionic salts and chelated trace minerals in Close-Up Dry Cow help reduce the risk of milk fever and transition stress during pre-calving. To meet the protein and energy needs of your growing heifers, while enhancing growth and performance choose Replacement Heifer. To improve breeding and appetites during high-stress situations, use Brigade. Crystalyx supplements are a hard, crystallized blend of molasses solids, protein, vitamins and trace minerals. They dissolve slowly with licking, and are naturally self-limiting.

To learn more about how Crystalyx® supplements "plug all your herd's nutritional gaps" contact your local Agway Feed Sales Specialist, Agway store, or representative.

District Receives Award

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — The Lancaster County Conservation District, represented by Aaron Stauffer of Ephrata, Pa., has been honored as a grand award District in the 47th annual Conservation Awards Program sponsored by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company and National Association of Conservation Districts. (NACD).

Stauffer represented the district during a work/study program for award winners Dec. 1-4 at the Camelback Inn Resort here.

Since 1947, the Goodyear/NACD Conservation Awards Program has encouraged and rewarded local efforts to protect and conserve soil, water, forests, wildlife and other natural resources. Winning districts are selected on the basis of their success in developing and implementing an annual plan for delivering district programs and services.

"The success of conservation districts is vital to the protection of our country's natural resources," said Goodyear's David Fulton, director of the conservation awards program. "This program assists local districts in their efforts to serve the community and recognizes those that have done an outstanding job of delivering quality conservation programs and services."

Lancaster County was one of 57 local conservation districts chosen as grand award winners based on their achievements during 1993. Nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts nationwide were eligible for the award.

In addition to observing conservation and agricultural practices in the Scottsdale area, Stauffer and participants in the work/study trip had an opportunity to discuss major conservation issues and policies with Jerry Digerness, president of NACD.

"Lancaster County and every conservation district in the country have benefited from their participation in the Goodyear/NACD conservation Awards Program," Digerness said. "Not only does better program management and planning help the district, but everyone in the community reaps the benefits of more efficient and innovative district programs."

Workshop On New Zealand Dairying At Conference

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — As a presenter at the annual conference of the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture, to be held Feb. 3–4 at the Nittany Lion Inn, Doug Parker, dairy farm manager and consultant at Shelburne Farms in Shelburne, Vt. will speak on the applicability of New Zealand dairy grazing systems in Pennsylvania.

This will be just one of many conference workshops designed with dairy farmers in mind.

Parker is the son of a pioneer New Zealand dairy farmer and grew up on a large family dairy there. Four of his brothers are farmers in New Zealand. Doug received a degree in farm consulting and real estate appraisal from Lincoln University in New Zealand and then worked for a bank doing farm loans, management consulting with farmers, and budgeting. He later relocated to Ohio where he worked as a builder, personal financial consultant and in real estate, as well as raising beef. In the past two years, he has done consulting work with farmers from Pennsylvania and West Virginia to Oklahoma.

As farm manager at Shelburne Farms, where he has been since last summer, Parker is responsible for the development of an infrastructure (fences, water, two new milking parlors, etc.) to support an increase in the dairy herd from the current 60 head of Brown Swiss to a total of approximately 300 cows. Although Shelburne is a nonprofit institution "dedicated to teaching and demonstrating the stewardship of natural resources," the dairy farm is required to make a profit and has done so by processing all milk into cheddar cheese. Last year, Shelburne won an award from the American Cheese Society for the "Best Specialty Cheese in the U.S.," and produced about 80,000 pounds. As the herd increases, projections are for 200,000 pounds of cheese to be produced per year.

When asked how New Zealand dairy farming differs from American dairying, Parker said that farmers here focus on the cows and not on grass/forage production. "Our aim [in New Zealand] is to produce a high-quality, high-yield, highly palatable, perennial forage consisting of grasses and legumes which is harvested 8 to 12 times per year by the animals. We strive to produce a meadow, as opposed to just pasture. To us, the meadow is first, cows second. We look at production per man (not per cow), and net profit per acre as measuring sticks," he said.

Other areas where New Zealand farm methods could benefit Pennsylvania dairies are in the construction of milking parlors ("cow sheds," to Parker), and the handling of manure during the few months of the year when the cows are not outside. New Zealand "cow sheds" are simple, low cost, relatively easy to build, and offer a high speed through-put of cows at milking time. Says Parker, "most New Zealand farmers hate to milk cows," thus they have developed ways to do it as quickly and efficiently as possible.

Manure management systems in New Zealand are based on a "barrier ditch system," in which trenches are built and the manure is stored there for later spreading. This system and the equipment to empty it can be purchased for a cost of $5000 to 10,000, far less than most automated American manure management systems. Parker is amazed at what some farms are spending here on manure handling.

In addition to talking with farmers, Parker likes to show bankers and businessmen that farming can be just as profitable (income producing) as any other investment if managed well. One area in which he is strict in his financial analysis is in making sure that the cost of "improvements" is equal to their value. He says of milking parlors in the U.S., "there are too many old overloaded, souped-up Cadillacs, when what is needed is a new stripped Ford pick-up simple, with a minimum of metal for manure to stick to.

"The cost of a new milk house or other improvement should increase the value of the farm by the exact same amount invested, and too often that is not the case," he said.

In addition to his workshop on "New Zealand Dairy Grazing Systems: Applicability to Pennsylvania," Parker will also serve on a panel on the "Economics of Dairy Grazing," with Mark Mapes, a Union County, Pa. dairy farmer and Forrest Stricker, a dairyman from Berks County, Pa.

Other workshops of interest to dairy farmers will look at seasonal dairying, making the transition to dairy grazing, rBGH, connections between soil and animal health, holistic resource management (HRM), and pasture basics. At the end of the conference, there will be a Farmer-to-Farmer Exchange session on "Grazing Livestock."

Applegate Is Outstanding Fruit Grower

FREEHOLD, N. J. — Norman Applegate, owner and operator of Battleview Orchards in Freehold, is the 1994 recipient of the Outstanding Fruit Grower Award presented annually by the New Jersey Horticultural Society.

In announcing the award, Genie DeCou, president of the society, said, "Norman was recognized with a plaque and lifetime membership because of his dedication to agriculture, the fruit industry, and operation of an innovative and progressive fruit growing and marketing organization."

Applegate grows more than 100 acres of apples, peaches, and cherries, and markets everything through a modern retail market as well as a pick-your-own sales outlet. This operation was recently expanded with the purchase of 620 acres near Shoreham, Vt. Approximately 100 acres of dwarf apples are grown at this time. Applegate's son, Scott, is active in the business with him.

Said DeCou, "Norman is a past president and director of the New Jersey Horticultural Society and past chairman of the New Jersey Apple Industry Council. He was also a member of the board of directors of the International Apple Institute and the National Apple Institute."

Other industry experience for Applegate was secretary of the Jersey Fruit Marketing Cooperative. He serves on the board of directors of the cooperative. Applegate serves on the board of directors of First Pioneer Farm Credit and served as chairman and director of North Central Jersey Farm Credit.

Young Farmers Thank Sponsors

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The delegation of 11 enterprising young farmers who participated in Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's first International study tour wish to express their appreciation to their tour sponsors.

The trip was made possible through the generous support from Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and contributions from sponsors contacted by the young farmers. The following agribusinesses and individuals contributed donations to help sponsor the international tour: Agway Member Relations, Agway Feed Region #7, and Agway Lebanon Petroleum, Animal Medic, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, Berks County Farm Bureau, Elverson National Bank, Fisher & Thompson, Ford New Holland, Inc., Hoffman Seeds, Inc., Keystone Farm Credit, Meridian Bank, Nationwide Insurance Agency Manager Hugh McGinely and agent Kathy Marinkov, Reading Bone Fertilizer, Sire Power, Inc., Star Silo, Wampler-Longacre, Fred Weaver, Wenger's Feed Mill, Inc., Willow Creek Animal Hospital, and the York Bank & Trust Company.

The purpose of the 11-day farm tour was a comparative analysis of global agriculture, exploring agricultural production, global markets, international trade relationships, agricultural education, and the challenges and obstacles facing farmers around the world. The 10-day trip included tours of Germany, Austria, Liechtenstein and Switzerland, including a two-day visit by each couple on a southern German host farm.

Tour participants included Rebekah Gross, Donald and Joanne Stoltzfus, Brian and Fay Dietrich, David and Beth Hartman, Ralph and Crystal Moyer, Steve and Bonnie Wenger and staff persons Rod and Bonnie McKenrick.

"The one item that made the biggest impression on us when comparing European farmers to their American counterparts was not the differences between the two, but the similarities," said participant David Hartman. "Their concern, and ours, is maintaining a way of life while achieving a comfortable standard of living. Also, of keen interest to both groups of European and American farmers is being able to pass their farms to future generations."

The most prominent difference between U.S. and European agriculture is free enterprise vs. government control. Farm subsidies, or financial support from the government, can account for up to 77 percent of farm income in some European countries.

"Throughout the countries we visited, the programs in effect are double the price to their farmers as compared to the price the U.S. farmers receive for our milk and meat," Hartman said.

The milk price in these countries would range from $23 to $28/cwt. compared to $13/cwt. in Pennsylvania. According to the PFB delegation, the European farmers were shocked to the point of disbelief when American farm prices were quoted.

Another difference noted by the PFB delegation is the small size of the farms visited. "The average acreage of the farms we visited was approximately 50 acres and was being heavily subsidized by the government," according to Brian Dietrich. One reason for the large agricultural subsidies is tourism. European governments are "farmer-friendly" and very committed to keeping their small farms intact, to the point of financially supporting them.

"Switzerland wants to keep its land under cultivation for esthetic value and the Swiss government is willing to make direct payments to farmers in an effort to keep them on the land," said David Hartman.

Land in the countries visited is very expensive. Prices for land in Germany can reach into the ranges of $15,000/acre for farm land and $40,000/acre for residential land. According to Fay Dietrich, as many as 50 percent of the farms ran a bed and breakfast in their homes. In Switzerland, however, the inheritance tax is very low and the law states that all children must be treated in an equal manner, said Dietrich.

"Only farmers could go so far from home and still find so much time to talk about the troubles and triumphs of our operations back home. It is difficult to express the understanding one feels when talking to one of these European farmers and the feeling that we are of one people—stewards of the earth—farmers," said David Hartman.

According to Ralph Moyer, "All members of the tour group feel that this International Study Program needs to be continued and enhanced on a regular basis in order to broaden the knowledge of other Young Farmers and lead agriculture into the next century."

Record Corn Production, Carryovers

2.32 billion bushels and soybean totalled 2.56 billion bushels.

"If last year at this time someone would have said we'd produce 10 billion bushels of corn, no one would have believed it, because we had never done better than 9.48 (billion bushels), which was a record in 1992," said Moore. "A lot of people are feeling it may be a while again before we produce a crop that big."

Moore said Pennsylvania's total corn harvest last year was not a record, however, and it stood at 118 million bushels, or about 118 bushels/acre. National yields for 1994 totalled 138 bushels/acre.

(To provide some perspective, according to Moore, in 1954 the national yield for corn was about 39 bushels/acre.)

Projected carryover for this year will total about 2 billion bushels of corn for next Sept. 1. Carryover of wheat will be 670 million bushels and soybeans will be 475 million bushels, nationwide.

What does all this mean? Simply, while the price for corn may hurt a lot of producers (Jan. 10 projection for March at $2.32 per bushel, May at $2.39 per bushel, and December at $2.52 per bushel), because meat production in some cases will rise dramatically, there will be good, potential markets for the product.

"We're going to have a record supply of meat, even greater in 1995 than the record we had in 1994," said Moore. He said we're "going to use a lot of corn and going to use a lot of soybeans."

Projected harvest for this year's corn crop stands at about 8.5 to 8.7 billion bushels, depending on weather and other factors, according to Moore.

The past year was a good one for producers. Consumer spending increased and "food prices are cheaper than nearly anything else in the economy," he said. The price of food is only about half the real rate of inflation (projected at 3 percent in 1995), and "the supply of food is abundant. Food is everywhere," said the economist.

Overall, agriculture will be a big winner, because livestock supplies will fuel demand for grain. Pork production will increase 3 to 5 percent this year, and total red meat production will be up 4 percent. Broiler production is projected to rise 6-7 percent (8-10 percent for turkeys), and maybe even higher, in some cases, according to Moore.

What is interesting, according to the economist, is that the price of grain did not decrease as much as the crop increased. But if producers are expecting a rally, they should be prepared to take into account the fact that there is a record number of livestock needing feed. Also, because of the return of the El Nino weather pattern, the Midwest could be hit by a drought in mid-summer.

Robert Leffel, soybean breeder from York and retired USDA Research Service scientist, spoke about the nearly perfect 1994 growing season for soybeans.

Right now, the 1995 Farm Bill is being written. Moore believes it will be similar in many ways to the 1990 Farm Bill, only with less funds allocated for agriculture. Already, more than 1,000 USDA field offices have been closed, and more such budget-trimming will take place in the years ahead.

Moore provided examples proving that, while agriculture made up only 1.5 percent of the total federal spending in fiscal year 1994 ($23 billion), other issues need to be addressed. Social security, for instance, makes up 20.5 percent of the budget ($319 billion), defense 17.8 percent ($276 billion), and Medicare and Medicaid 16.2 percent ($251 billion). The interest on the national debt totals a whopping 13.1 percent, or $203 billion, for 1994.

Also, more farms are being lost in the U.S. to the tune of 32,500 per year. In 1935, according to Moore, there were 6.80 million farms in the U.S. In the year 2002, there will be only 1.54 million farms.

Parity, once a measuring stick of how the national economy is doing regarding price, indicates that prices for most commodities has been shrinking rapidly. Parity is the relationship between things that farmers buy and sell. For example, in 1910, as in 1960, one bushel of wheat could be sold to purchase one shirt. But now, to buy the same shirt, you'd have to sell about three bushels of wheat. Most ag products fall anywhere between 35-48 percent of parity. A parity price for corn would be about $5.77 a bushel.

"But parity is dead, and who killed such a good thing?" said Moore. "The farmers killed it because of our yields in productivity."

Not all is doom and gloom for farming, however, especially in this region. Pennsylvania cash receipts in 1993 totalled $3.712 billion, which gave the state a 19th ranking.

He said because of the strong economy and expanding agricultural exports, he remains positive about agriculture. Producers should watch for rallies this spring and take advantage of them.

Ag In 2010

Keith Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, spoke about Pennsylvania Agriculture in the Year 2010. He offered some pointers about how producers can survive in the coming years, and what they should expect.

The challenge to see what agriculture would be like in 15 years is difficult enough. "Believe me, if I knew what the markets would be a month from now, I'd probably would not be with any of you," said Eckel. "I'd probably be capitalizing on that."

Agriculture in the coming millenium will be that of an "agriculture in change.

"It's hard to believe that 50 years ago, we had about 30 million farmers in the U.S.," said Eckel. "Today we have 1.8 million."

By the year 2000, according to the Farm Bureau president, 300,000 of those farmers will be producing 80 percent of the food and fiber in this country.

Also, the land base is less than what was available to farmers in 1900. And those farmers will be feeding a nation of 260 million people and exporting about 40 percent of all we produce in the next century.

Technology will play "a major role in these changes," he said. Those changes will take place by refining the technology, through computerization, that farmers make use of today.

Eckel, who grows about 500 acres of corn and 300 acres of wheat, also grows several acres of tomatoes. Technology has allowed him to use the concept of "banding" fertilizers in row for his tomatoes.

Using Penn State research, Eckel said that, 14 years ago, he started using the technology, which cut the application of fertilizers in half and decreased the cost per unit of production to the tune of about $14,000 per year.

Agricultural policy should be established by research and reason and not by the emotional agendas of environmental activists and animal rightists. Eckel spoke about the 30-day moratorium placed on BST, and how that moratorium could set a precedent — it has the "potential for setting agricultural back," he said.

But farmers who recognize the globalization of markets and how to adjust their operations accordingly can benefit in the long run.

Speakers at the crops conference included, from left, Lou Moore, Penn State ag economist; John Rowehl, York County agent; and Robert Leffel, soybean breeder, York County.

Soybean Season

Also at the Monday conference, Robert Leffel, soybean breeder from York and retired USDA Research Service scientist, spoke about the nearly perfect 1994 growing season for soybeans.

Leffel said the year was almost ideal in terms of distribution of rainfall, providing a national average of 41.5 bushels/acre in the U.S. for a total of 2.45 billion bushels.

But what concerns the industry is the fact that Brazilian competition is proving tough on American producers, because the Brazilian beans have more oil and a lot less foreign material per seed.

Unless U.S. can improve the intrinsic quality of the soybean, the U.S. will lose ground to Brazilian competition for Japanese markets, according to the soybean breeder.

Corn Growers Present Awards

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Even on group 3 and 4 soils in Pennsylvania, record corn harvests were filed in 1994 during a near-ideal growing season, according to Greg Roth, assistant professor of agronomy at Penn State.

Roth reviewed the year for the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA) at the dinner meeting during the Pennsylvania Crops Conference on Monday. Also, Roth presented the annual Pennsylvania Five-Acre Corn Club awards at the dinner.

Roth said that the club recorded the highest yields ever for the entrants in the annual contest, for an average of 168 bushels per acre. There were more than 100 entrants.

National Holstein Convention Offers Promotion Opportunity

PITTSBURGH — Remember the three-year-old that took champion honors for you at your local show last summer? Or the heifer that did so well for your youngster as a 4-H project?

Does anyone know about your herd's latest classification achievements and your new homebred Excellents and high-scored Very Goods? And have you publicly thanked the buyers of your herd genetics lately?

Holstein Association delegates, cattle breeders and enthusiasts from all over the United States, as well as International guests, will converge on Pittsburgh, June 25–28 for the 1995 National Holstein annual meeting and convention.

A major part of every annual National Holstein convention is the "guidebook," in the form of the convention souvenir booklet. Included in this year's convention booklet will be schedules of convention events, information on what to see and do in the area, and highlights of the Holstein history of Pennsylvania.

Since Pennsylvania hosts the national convention only once every twenty or so years, the opportunity for Holstein breeders to promote their cattle and farms in this booklet is truly a unique one. Convention booklets are "keepers," saved from year to year by many of the several thousand who attend and use them as reference guides for marketing information and visiting farms.

Full-page promotional space is available in both black and white and color, as well as half and quarter-pages in black and white. Included is a listing of the farm or business on a separate Pennsylvania locator map, an added-bonus promotional tool useful in marketing and merchandising.

To reserve promotional space in the 1995 National Holstein Convention souvenir booklet, contact any of the Booklet Publication Committee members listed below:

Dairy MAP To Begin In Wayne County

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Dairy MAP, developed by a multi-disciplinary team in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, began in 1992. The program is designed to help producers increase their competitive advantage by providing up-to-date business management information tailored specifically for the dairy industry. The program's core workshop, "Managing for Success" (MFS), applies general business management techniques to the dairy business.

Participants in this program will be taught skills, not given easy answers. Participants are expected to solve problems, make plans and define farm goals. All of these can be applied to their actual farm operation right away.

Each Dairy-MAP workshop features six to eight hours of learning, split over two sessions held one week apart. Between sessions, participants do homework to help them begin applying business concepts on their farm.

The Dairy MAP program, in Wayne County will be held on Thursday, January 26 from about 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.The meeting site is the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office, Courthouse, Honesdale.

Interested potential participants in this Wayne County Dairy-MAP program are encouraged to contact area agribusinesses for financial support of the $100 per farm fee. Some of the area agribusinesses that have responded with financial support are Northeast Farm Credit, ACA, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, Dairylea Cooperative and Eastern Milk Producers' Cooperative, Inc. Other agribusinesses such as a feed mill, area machinery dealers, A.I. Cooperative and others doing business with the dairy farm might be approached for support of this program.

For more information about the Dairy-MAP Program offered in Wayne County, contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension by dialing (717) 253-5970 ext. 239 or by visiting the office located in the basement of the Wayne County Courthouse in Honesdale.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Many people know the Farm and Home Center located on Arcadia Road is a hub of activity promoting agriculture and home-related interests. Few know the behind-the-scenes responsibility required to keep the multi-purpose facility a viable center that serves both rural and urban interests.

Those who do the behind-the-scenes work are known as the Farm and Home Foundation of Lancaster County. Members held their 31st annual meeting on Tuesday night at the Center.

A review of the year's activities, its financial status, and the proposed upkeep was reported.

Total assets are $493,799; total liabilities and equity $493,799; total income $24,158; general operating expenses $14,489, and net income $9,930.

In an effort to comply with the American Disabilities Act, the Center is installing an elevator, which should be completed by the middle of February.

In addition to Extension Services, other offices are located in the building, which paid $4,485 in rent during 1994.

Dr. John Schwartz, extension director, reported that in 1994 scholarships were given to eight students pursuing majors in the agricultural field. The $1,000 scholarships are presented annually, bringing the total to 346 students receiving $255,300 since the scholarships' inception. The number given to students yearly depends on the interest earned from a trust fund. Schwartz suspects that the number will increase this year since interest rates have risen.

Newly-elected directors include the following: Ruth Akers, Quarryville; Lois Brubaker, Manheim; Luke Brubaker, Mounty Joy; Evelyn Crider, Nottingham; J. Leroy Esbenshade, Manheim; Guy Eshelman, Lancaster; and Raymond Witmer, Willow Street.

Other board members include Martha Bomberger, Richard Haas, Edward Hess, Harold Rohrer, Kenneth Rutt, Larry Weaver, Robert Zook, Joan Hershey, Elvin Hess, Mark Hess, Lilli Ann Kopp, James Kreider, Charles Rohrer, and Larry Skromme.

Doris Thomas, former home economist with extension services, reviews her 30 years with the extension and her new position as a tour guide for the area.

In addition to electing directors to fill the terms of expiring board members, the program included a talk by Doris Thomas, former extension home economist for 30 years. Thomas, now retired, spoke of her adjustments to retirement and of her work as a certified tour guide for Brunswick Tours.

"I have a chance once more to be an educator," Thomas said of work in telling visitors about the county's history and places of interest.

The Farm and Home Center is a "Living Monument" to the faithful backing of the county's agriculture and agribusiness, the dedicated service of the board of directors, and the principal benefactors, the late Elmer L. Esbenshade and the late Levi H. Brubaker.

Area Producers Needed For Market

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Farmers looking for a new opportunity to retail their products this season are invited to attend an exploratory meeting about a new producer-only growers' market in Quarryville.

The meeting at 2 p.m. on Saturday, February 11, will be held in the Hoffman Community Building located at the Quarryville Fairgrounds.

Selling fresh produce and other farm products directly to consumers at a new market is a golden opportunity to either expand your existing sales or get started in retail marketing. New growers' markets in some of our neighboring states have proven to be a wonderful bonanza to both new and existing farmers. The goal is to create such a market here, where farmers will reap new financial benefits from their efforts.

This meeting will help set the direction of such a market. Farmers who raise fruits, vegetables, herbs, eggs, plants, honey, or any other shelf-stable farm product should attend. They will hear a brief overview of the opportunity and have ample time to discuss it. Details such as rules, products and sale times will be covered.

This marketing effort is being sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculturte (PASA). For more information about the meeting, contact Leon Weber at (610) 683-1401.

Bill and Rose Eason show their 6-quart White Mountain ice cream freezer they won through a Farm Show contest sponsored by Lancaster Farming. The Easons, operators of a roadside farm market, collect freezers.

Eason Wins Ice Cream Freezer

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Bill Eason is well known in the Chesapeake Bay-area community of Oxford, Maryland. where he and his wife Rose have been operating a roadside market for 23 years.

A person who said he never wins anything, Eason on Wednesday picked up a 6-quart original old fashioned White Mountain ice cream freezer at the office of Lancaster Farming — Eason's entry was the winning one out of 2,000 entries made at the newspaper's Farm Show booth in Harrisburg last week.

Eason said he collects the White Mountain ice cream freezers, although his collection is small. He said that now that he won the hand-cranked freezer, he will probably retire an 8-quart model that he and Rose have been using for years. They said they love to make homemade ice cream.

He said he owns a small 2-quart model that was never used and is still in the original box. He said he was tempted several times to make a small amount of ice cream in that one, but didn't want to ruin its collector value.

The couple grows a variety of vegetables on their owned seven-acres to sell at their roadside stand. At first, in addition to sharecropping grains on 250 acres, Eason raised sweet corn and sold it wholesale to local groceries.

When gas prices skyrocketed during the 1970s, they started selling the corn at a stand at the end of the farm lane, to eliminate the hauling costs.

Soon, customers wanted tomatoes, and Rose and Bill said they began raising tomatoes, along with the corn.

While he still sharecrops grain using all no-till (he said because of the heavy concern for soil erosion and runoff that he and the landlord share), but the roadside stand has grown significantly over the past 20 years.

This past year, catering to customer demand and preferences, they marketed 42 different fruits and vegetables at the stand, which is open from April, with the start of the asparagus season, through the end of October with pumpkins, fall flowers and maize.

The stand is located along Rt. 333, about 2.5 miles from the heavily traveled Rt. 250, and the emphasis is marketing to local people.

Eason said he frequently travels north to southern Pennsylvania and he is familiar with produce coming from the area, because a larger market in Annapolis is supplied by Pennsylvanian producers. He and Rose said they go there to buy there eggs, and different foods, such as rotisserie chicken.

The two were raised on farms. Rose's father, Roland Blades was a truck farmer in Caroline County, known as a truck farming area and also known for its cantaloupe. "His last year he had 90 acres all handpicked," Rose said. "And there was 30 acres of cucumbers."

Bill's mother Evelyn is better known as "Honey," they said, and while Rose has a good vanilla ice cream recipe, Honey's real fruit ice creams are some of their favorites.

"We like homemade ice cream," Rose said, adding that their grandchildren, who come to the farm every chance they get, also enjoy it.

Holstein Breeders Set For 82nd Convention

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The theme is "Northwest Exposure," but no one is expected to suffer from frostbite at the 1995 Pennsylvania Holstein Convention, which has been scheduled to be held Feb. 23-25, at the Radisson Hotel, in West Middlesex.

Convention details have been finalized, including a Feb. 7 deadline for ordering tickets and making room reservations.

The three-day event starts noon Feb. 23 with registration, commercial exhibits and a dairy bar open through till early evening.

The Pa. Holstein Association Board of Directors meets from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., while, starting at the same time, tours to the Wendall August Forge where handcrafted detailed metal works are made, and the Grove City outlet shopping mall, are scheduled.

Also, busses to the sale cattle barn at the David and Robert Minner farm, will be available for those wishing to look over the 65 head of consignments for the convention sale.

The sale theme is "A Celebration of Type," and it is to feature cattle "from deep cow families that exemplify type and production," according to an association news release.

The convention sale starts at 7 p.m., and there is to be hot food and a sandwich bar at the convention area.

At the same time, the commercial exhibits are available for visiting. Later, from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m., the dairy bar re-opens.

In the morning on Feb. 24, an early bird program is available from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., with highlights of some of the commercial exhibitors; the dairy bar opens at 8 a.m. and runs through the day.

From 10 a.m. through 3:30 p.m., the 1995 Pennsylvania Holstein Convention Ladies Program is to begin with busses leaving the Radisson-West Middlesex promptly at 10 a.m.

The first stop is "Tara" a nearby country inn that has been designed based on inspiration from the movie, "Gone With the Wind."

A one-hour tour of the house (mostly) and grounds includes rare and priceless antiques, works of art and collectibles from the Civil War era. Some of the tour includes looks at some of the overnight rooms at the inn, including, "Rhett's Room," the "Confederate Getaway," and the "Plantation Suite."

After the tour, a family style southern luncheon is to be served at Tara. After lunch, Sharon Piano, of the Nutrition Council-Mid East, is to present a short program about calcium.

Then the group is to leave for downtown Sharon for shopping. Billed as two of the world's largest retail stores, the shopping tour includes "The Winner," the world's largest off-price fashion store with four floors of designer merchandise; and "Reyer's" the world's largest shoe store.

In addition to fashion clothes and accessories, on the third floor of "The Winner" is "Bavarian Village," a floor which features 15 old-world gift shops.

Busses return to the Radisson about 3:30 p.m., allowing tour participants time to hear the final speaker of the general annual convention meeting.

The 82nd annual meeting is set to run from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Radisson.

During the annual meeting, each commercial exhibitor will have the opportunity to make a brief statement on their products and services.

The business of the annual meeting is to review the past year's activities and to discuss the outlook for the industry, into the new year and beyond.

From 6 p.m. to 7 p.m., Friday, is the banquet reception. At 7 p.m. the convention banquet and dance is to begin.

At the banquet, the speaker is to be Ronald Eberhard, who is to provide his personal "wit and wisdom on family matters, child rearing and other assorted topics," according to the news release.

Also, inductees into the Pa. Holstein Hall of Fame are to be recognized, as well are the winners of the association's Distinguished Young Holstein Breeder award.

Music for the dance following the banquet is to be provided by the band, "Woodsmoke."

On Feb. 25, an awards breakfast and program is scheduled to start at 8 a.m.

During the convention wrap-up breakfast, members are to be recognized for their achievements over the past year. In addition, the featured breakfast speaker is to be Sid Bream, a Holstein breeder and major league baseball player.

Reservations at the Radisson should be made by Feb. 7, by calling (412) 528-2501 and indicating that the reservations are being made in connection with the convention. The lodging rate is $60 (tax not included).

Reassessment In Full Swing

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County is in the middle of a county-wide, court-ordered real estate tax assessment and many farmers will be affected.

The process began almost two years ago with an informational meeting held by the Lancaster County Farm Bureau at the county Farm and Home Center to help people understand the process, why it was being undertaken, and what options were available under the state's "Clean and Green Act," otherwise known as Act 319.

The act provides a preferential tax assessment for agricultural lands and forests, allowing them to be assessed at the value of the use of the property, rather than market value.

Since the original informational meeting, property values have been reassessed, updating values for the first time in many instances from the 1950s and 60s.

The new values are to go into effect sometime this year.

Lancaster County Farm Bureau has set up a series of meetings in conjunction with the county Tax Bureau to help farmers and other interested landowners decide whether or not to participate in the Clean and Green program.

In order to get all possible information concerning reassessment, Clean and Green, taxes, etc., a series of meetings, which started Friday, have been scheduled for around the county.

The first meeting was held at the Martindale Fire Company, the remainder of the meetings, all set to start at 7:30 p.m., are set for:

- Jan. 24 — Farm and Home Center in Lancaster.
- Jan. 27 — Donegal High School Auditorium.
- Jan. 30 — Hoffman Building, in Quarryville.
- Feb. 3 — Blue Ball Fire Company.

For more information, contact Earl Newcomer, county Farm Bureau board member, at (717) 872-2646; or Jane Balmer, county Farm Bureau president, at (717) 653-5916.

Crop Management Association To Hold Luncheon

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Crop Management Association will hold its eleventh annual luncheon January 31 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in State College. The state association and local member groups promote sound crop management practices in the commonwealth.

Farmer rights and responsibilities is the topic of this year's luncheon. Speakers will discuss specific laws and regulations influencing farm practices and identify Crop Management Association services available to enable members to meet compliance requirements. Speakers will also discuss farmer rights and ways the farming community can work to sustain rights.

Guest speakers include Dr. Marvin Risius, head of Penn State's agronomy department; Dr. Scott Harrison, Penn State pesticide education coordinator; Joel Myers, agronomist for the Natural Resources Conservation Service; Thomas Murphy, Lycoming County cooperative extension agent; Guy Temple, multicounty cooperative extension agent emeritus; Dr. Herbert Cole, Penn State professor of agricultural sciences; and Barry Frantz, One-Plan project coordinator.

Keynote speaker Sen. Roger Madigan will provide an overview of farmer responsibilities and rights. Madigan was a dairy farmer for 13 years and currently operates a 260 acre crop and certified tree farm near Towanda. Madigan serves as chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee and vice-chairman of the Game and Fisheries Committee.

In 1984, Madigan was elected to the Pennsylvania Senate from the 23rd Senatorial District, which includes Bradford, Tioga, Lycoming, Sullivan, and Union counties. Since 1979, he has served as a Penn State agricultural trustee. Madigan was graduated from Penn State in 1951 with a bachelor's degree in dairy production.

Juniors Honored At York Holstein Meeting

owned by Dixie Doll, Glen Rock. Honorable mention All-Pennsylvania honors were won by Warns Sexy Lady, the four-year-old entry owned by Brad Walker, Thomasville.

Recognition for 1993 All-Pennsylvania award winners were the reserve placing winter calf Gentle Touch Cr Hal Roxy, owned by Amy Trimmer, East Berlin, and reserve fall yearling Dar-Dale Mantis Tristie, owned by Dixie Doll, Glen Rock.

All-Pennsylvania 1993 honorable mention awards went to: spring calf Lindmabe Prelude Miss Kay, owned by Joshua Hushon, Delta; fall calf Kerchenhill Steady Saphire, owned by Angie Beshore. New Cumberland, and fall calf Lady's Manor Marabell Sheik, owned by Jacob Hushon, Delta.

During the annual business meeting, three directors were elected to serve three-year terms on the county Holstein board. New directors are Bridgette Boyer Bortner, Seven Valleys, Wayne Myers, Dover, and Michael Stewart, Airville. They will fill the board vacancies created by the expiration of terms of retiring directors Doug Kilgore, Airville, Gail Thoman, Dallastown, and Mark Bupp, Brogue.

National director John Howard, Willow Street, updated York County members on activities of the Holstein Association. Howard reported a break-even financial year on operations for the National Holstein Association, due to an expected total of some 330,000 animals registered through 1994. A balance of $4 million remains on the Association's building payments, expected to be paid off in four installments over the next 15 months. All members are encouraged to attend the area's Holstein Open Forum, scheduled for February 16 at the Sheraton Inn East, Harrisburg.

Frank Feeser, Hanover, state director from York County, noted that the charge for advertising in the Pennsylvania Holstein Association's "Profiles" publication will be increasing. Three $1,000 scholarships will be awarded by the state Holstein Association to deserving college students. Feeser announced the dates of March 24 as the annual Spring Holstein Championship Show and September 26 as the Fall Championship Show, being held in conjunction with the All-American show at Harrisburg. Top-quality consignments are are being sought for the sale to be held in conjunction with the National Holstein Convention being hosted by Pennsylvania in Pittsburgh, in late June.

Consignments are also wanted for the annual Eastern Shore Showcase Sale to be held in Quarryville, Lancaster County, on March 25. An eight percent commission on sales of the consignments is shared by halves with the counties from which the animals originate, making this sale a source of income for county Holstein treasuries. Advertising is available for consignments in a catalog to be published for the Showcase event. For more information, contact Dan Hushon, Delta, phone 717-456-5771.

BIC Defeats Structure Proposal, Sets Stage For New Talks

CHICAGO, Ill. — The Beef Industry Council (BIC) of the Meat Board, the Federation of State Councils, defeated by a 61 percent no vote a proposal to support the current Oversight Committee beef structure proposal.

Topping concerns about the plan is the consolidation of lobbying and checkoff governance through the same organization with a "seamless" executive committee made up of dues-payers only.

While not approving the current structure proposal, the 91 producers and industry representatives who make up the BIC board passed a second resolution that directs the BIC Executive Committee "to work with and through the current and future Oversight Committee and transition teams to develop a plan for greater focus, coordination and cost effectiveness." Meat Board directors passed this and a companion motion which also commits the Meat Board to support the effort.

BIC Chairman Ron Curtis said the Federation has long suggested structural change and remains committed to the principles that led to the current structure proposal. He said the BIC will continue to work to develop a consumer-focused structure with programs built around the eight leverage points outlined in the Beef Industry Long-Range Plan.

"BIC directors continue to believe it would be good for the beef industry to focus its efforts around a single plan, work more cooperatively, eliminate bureaucracy and be cost effective. To succeed, however, a plan must be realistic and workable and must have strong industry consensus supporting it," said Curtis, a Hastings, Iowa cattle feeder.

For the past two years, Meat Board Chairman Jim Hauge said, Meat Board and BIC have been part of the process to develop, through a consensus, an organizational structure that would help the industry become more effective and efficient.

"There continue to be many questions and concerns about the form of the proposed organization, however, especially the consolidation of lobbying and checkoff governance," the Leith, North Dakota beef and pork producer said. "Our directors believe we can find a structure proposal that will achieve industry goals. In the months ahead the Meat Board and Beef Industry Council will continue to be part of the process of consensus- building.

"It always has been the Meat Board objective to achieve a realistic and doable structure that was good for the beef industry. Although this plan isn't acceptable, our action today sets the stage for us to actively contribute to a consensus solution," Hauge said.

'94 Disaster Signup Set

POTTSVILLE (Schuylkill Co.) — Signup for 1994 disaster benefits ends on March 31.

Benefits are paid on losses exceeding 40 percent (35 percent if the crop is insured) of normal production. All crops, including nursery stock, are covered by this program. Payments are calculated on eligible losses at 65 percent of the market price as established by the Farm Service Agency.

Producers filing application will be required to provide documented evidence of their efforts to produce a normal crop. This could include fertilizer, lime and pesticide bills, spray schedules, or any evidence of production activities. Evidence of actual production could include sales receipts, harvest records, weigh tickets, general sales records, or Farm Service Agency bin measurements for grain in storage.

Normal production for program crops such as corn will be the Farm Service Agency assigned yield. Producers of nonprogram crops such as peaches may establish a proven yield for the crop by providing sales receipts for any of the past three years. Growers unable to provide sales receipts will use the Farm Service Agency assigned yield.

Any grower suffering crop losses in 1994 should contact the Farm Service Agency Office (formerly ASCS) in the Fairlane Village Mall for details.

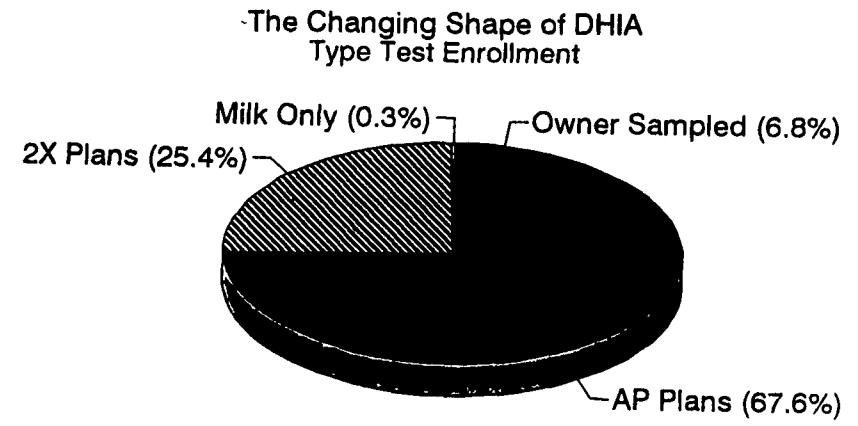
DHIA Changes For Next Century



Enrollment during 1994

ber is more like 3/4 of herds by spring."

The charts of enrollment in various types of test in 1993 and 1994 tell the story. While official records continued to provide the bread and butter of DHIA's business at around 90 percent — a number that has remained stable over the years — the shift in official plans to AM/PM is clear. (see charts)

"I think two things really account for the push," Amick said, "the Holstein Association's acceptance of AP tests was one factor, and of course our own pricing changes were the other."

Are members happy about the change?

"For the most part, yes," Amick said, "although some folks are still skeptical about AP. No matter how long the program's been around, or how good the research is, there will always be some skeptics. But we really don't have any choice. By far and away the biggest cost we have is putting a technician on the farm on test day, and AM/PM reduces that cost to the farmer, and to us, by one test per day. It's as simple as that."

But is there any reason to be suspicious of AP testing?

Not according to Jim Boyer, Pennsylvania DHIA's Processing Center manager.

"If you look at the comparison between milk shipped and milk weighed on test day, that's what counts. And we see virtually no difference between AP and 2X plans. In fact the overage between 2X milk weighed and shipped, and the same numbers for AP is slightly smaller, showing that, if anything, AP testing may be just slightly more accurate. Statistically speaking we see virtually the same average, and the same overall distribution." (see chart)

"If you don't think the numbers will apply in your herd, there's a good test available," he said. "The DHIA technician's laptop program allows him to calculate total milk weights. If you're currently testing 2X, have the technician run the AP total calculation the next time he's in your barn. Right after the first milking print off a list of total milk weights and compare the results with what you actually see after the cows are milked the second time. Maybe you'll still find that AP isn't for you, but you may be surprised.

On the leading edge of DHIA testing plans are the LER, or Labor Efficient Records programs, now in their seventh year.

Under LER testing, a farmer with electronic metering equipment takes milk weights on a monthly or semi-monthly basis and forwards those results to the DHIA processing center, either electronically or on diskette. Milk is only actually weighed and sampled by the DHIA technician on a quarterly basis.

"Pennsylvania DHIA was one of the first in the country to be involved in this program, and we've seen slow but steady growth," Boyer said.

"As on-farm computing becomes more and more common, I expect the LER type programs to really take off. At this point, I'm not sure how many of our dairymen really even know about them. We have about two dozen herds on the option. Mostly, but not exclusively, the larger herds have signed up so far."

Beyond LER there are a number of innovative or experimental programs. Some of the options available include: alternate DHI supervised and owner supervised tests on test day, alternate DHI supervised and owner supervised tests on a monthly basis, APCS quarterly sampling, and a number of variations on the 2X LER program for those herds with electronic meters.

Amick said that right now Pennsylvania has about 75 herds enrolled in various innovative options, and points out that not all of them are restricted to herds with electronic equipment.

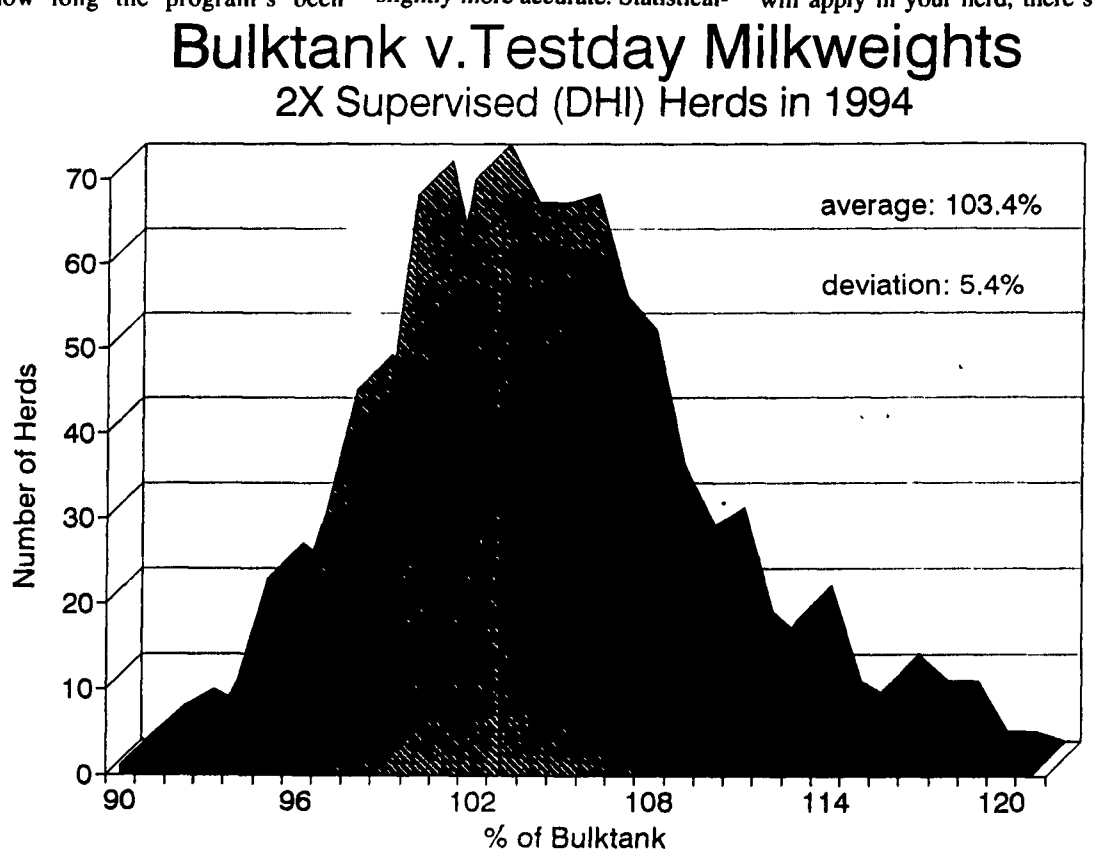
"Some of the best innovative plans are designed around letting the member take some of the milk weights and have the technician take the others when he comes to sample," he said.

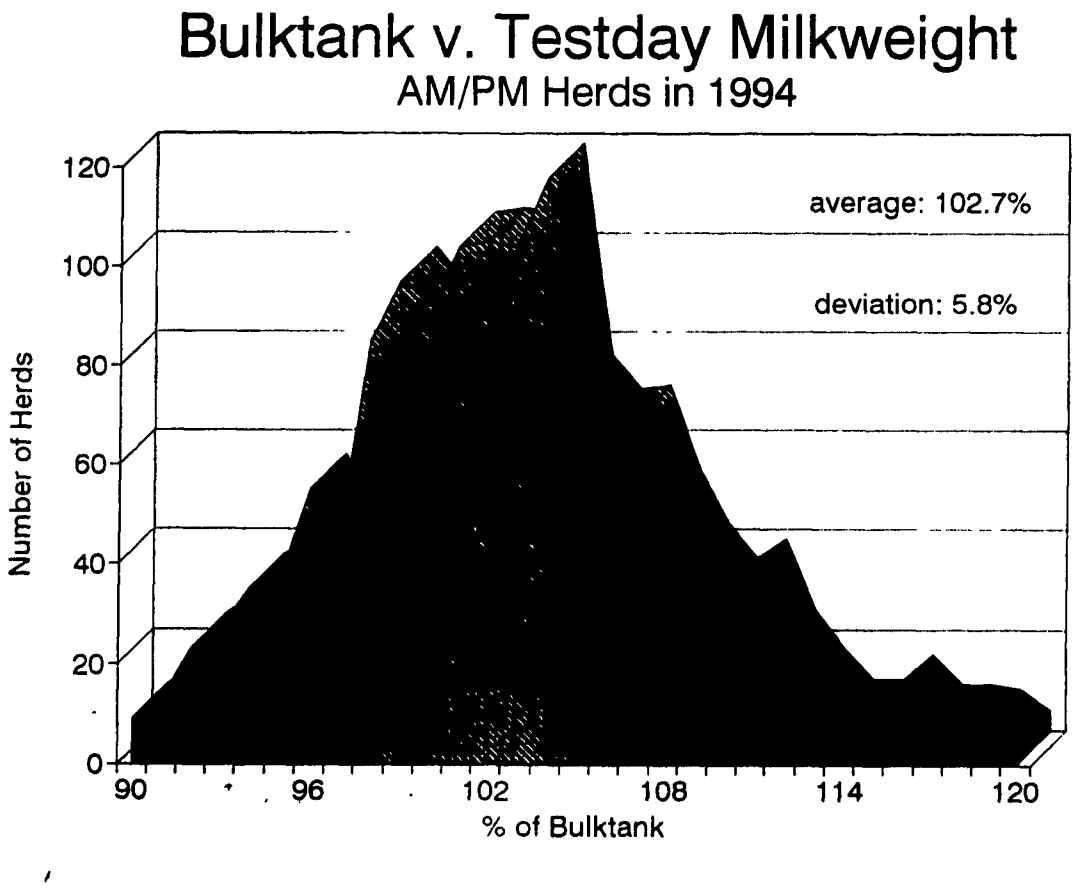
"There are a lot of alternatives, both for cost-savings, and in order to minimize the amount of inconvenience a DHIA technician might cause on test day. I really say that no technician should have anybody quit DHIA anymore. We just have so mush flexibility in what we can allow in official programs that we never had in the past."

But Amick cautioned that the innovative plans, while official, are regarded as "provisional" by National DHIA.

"I don't doubt in the ling run most of these are going to be made regular DHIA tests," Amick said. "That's what happened with LER, which was once an innovative plan. In the meantime, I have dairymen check with their AI units, or with their breed associations to see how they feel about a particular innovative program. While we might allow it, somebody at a bull stud might have questions if the herd is on a young sire program, for example. When in doubt, call the people who are using your records outside of DHIA to be sure."

Call DHIA if you're interested in LER or innovative plans for your own herd, and ask for Dean Amick at 1-800-DHI-TEST.





Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Maryland DHIA Report For December

The December 1994 Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd. To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of 3.5 percent fat corrected milk per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test.

Also listed are the top 10 herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top eight herds for Ayrshires.

ADC Reorganizes, Announces Two District Meetings

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — The board of directors of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative recently announced the results of earlier district elections for members of the board of directors, and also board reorganizational elections.

In reorganization election results, Robert McSparran, of Peach Bottom, who has served for 27 years on the board, was elected board president for a 15th term. He and his wife, Charlotte, own and operate a 300-acre farm and milk a mixed herd of Holstein and Guernsey cattle. They are in partnership with a son, John.

Ivo Otto Jr., of Carlisle, of District 16, was re-elected vice president. He is a 34-year member of the cooperative and has also served on its board for 27 years. He and his family operate a 300-acre farm, milking 100 Holsteins.

Roy Hetrick, of Bernville, was re-elected as the board's second vice president. A director for 20 years, he and his family milk 375 Holsteins on a 870-acre Berks County farm. They also rent an additional 450 acres.

Other board members re-elected to executive posts include Robert Dever, of Philadelphia, as secretary and chief executive officer; Evan Fineman, of Newtown, as treasurer and chief financial officer; and James Barnett, of Strasburg, as member relations manager and assistant secretary.

Others, who were re-elected to the board during fall district meetings include Robert Winner, of Moorestown, N.J., District 8; Allen Wehr, Mifflinburg, District 14; Kenneth Schoenberg, Shippensburg, District 15; and Thomas Wakefield, Bedford, District 21.

Newly elected to the board this fall were Harold Moyer, of Wyalusing, District 22, who replaces retired H. Carlyle Russell, of Rome.

Moyer and his wife Charlene have two children, Trevor, 17, and Rachel, 5, milk 134 Holsteins and farm 1,011 acres, owning 511 acres. They also raise 10 steers and grow forages and corn.

A 1974 Penn State graduate with a bachelor's degree in animal industry, Moyer has served as president and vice president of the Bradford-Sullivan Farm Bureau and he has been active in the state Farm Bureau, serving on its Dairy and Policy Development committees.

A 4-H leader and member of the county 4-H advisory board, Moyer is also chairman of the board of trustees of the North Rome Wesleyan Church.

Named the state's outstanding Holstein boy in 1972, he also graduated from the Pa. Rural Leadership Program in 1991.

District Meetings

In other news, ADC's District 12 meeting is set to be held 11:45 a.m., Jan. 19, at the Hoffman Building, in the Solanco Fairgrounds in Quarryville.

During this meeting, officers, delegates and alternative delegates are to be elected for the coming year.

Members to receive recognition include John Glick, of Kinzer, with 25 years membership, and Herbert and Teresa Graybill, of New Providence, for 50 years membership.

Quality premium awards are to be presented to Curtis and Gary Akers, of Quarryville; Elmer and Sylvia Lantz Jr., Paradise; and J. Carl and Doris Zander, of Quarryville.

Also, District 3 is scheduled to hold its annual banquet meeting on Jan. 24, 11:45 a.m., in the Hoffman Building.

At that meeting, John Fisher, of Quarryville, is to receive a plaque commemorating 25-years of membership. Marlin Brubaker and Gordon Herr, both of the Quarryville area; and Abner L. and Sarah Stoltzfus, of Peach Bottom, are to receive quality premiums awards.

Quality premium awards are presented to those whose herd somatic cell counts have qualified for premium bonus payments for 12 months straight.

Dever is to be the guest speaker at both meetings and is expected to report on the cooperative and dairy industry issues.

"We were especially pleased to see so many retailers from New York, Maryland, and West Virginia promoting Pennsylvania's Eastern Select apples."

The Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board is the commonwealth's oldest grower-funded agricultural marketing program. Established in 1968 by the state's apple growers and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the program provides consumer education, merchandising, public relations, and market information services.

ADC Reports Strong Position For Members

eventually benefit the U.S. dairy producer.

He said that an agreement with Canada over dairy trade, within the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), still hasn't been worked out, and that provides uncertainty in the industry.

He said that on the other hand, although the Minnesota-Wisconin Price dropped 80 cents in the last two months, cheese prices moving up slightly recently and that can mean good news. Akers said that roughly a 1 cent change in cheese price equates to a 10 cent change in the price of a hundredweight of milk.

Also of concern to the cooperative has been an increase in the cost of hauling milk. He said hauling in Federal Order 4 will be going up slightly. "It was something we had to do," he said, "we're aware of the significance of the transportation cost."

In other news, Akers said that the cooperative "expanded the amount of scholarships available." He said there is one $500 scholarship for the district for the coming fall semester, with details to be announced.

The 1989 patronage refund check was to be mailed out, and in April, members will get another check representing a return of 20 percent of profits for the past fiscal year, with the remainder going into the cooperatives 5-year revolving fund.

Akers also announced that the ADC board of directors has approved a policy of paying for part of the cost of attending the Dairy MAP program.

The Dairy MAP program is an Extension-sponsored program to help dairy producers better cope with management and profitability considerations on the operations. The program has been fairly well reported in various publications and by the extension service, along with Penn State University.

However, for more information, contact a local extension office. For more information on the ADC cost-sharing program, contact a field representative.

Also speaking at the meeting was Robert Dever, CEO for ADC. Dever, who started working for ADC in 1970, and is marking his 25th year with the cooperative in May, said that members should investigate the amount of federal assessment refund they are owed, depending on the amount of production they had last year.

Members are to get summaries of 1994 production from the cooperative, which they can then take to the former USDA ASCS offices, now called the USDA Farm Service Agency, for determination and processing.

Overall, Dever said that milk production in the entire United States is increasing in large sections. He said the upper Mid West seemed to have recovered significantly from weather-related disasters the past several years; western Texas, New Mexico and Arizona have increased milk production significantly; and the Northeast production has increased also, but not to the extent that is going on elsewhere.

The increase in production, without an increase in exporting or an effective price support program will result in lower prices, he said.

He said that over the past 25 years, except for two periods, the trend has been for lower prices and more milk.

For those wondering about the milk production in California, because of the severe flooding on the West Coast, he said that a lack of water will probably be the only thing to slow down California's dairy production growth, not excessive rain from occasional storms.

Dever said that the outlook for milk price is right now just "an out-and-out guess," but he expects a decrease in the range of 30 cents to as much as 70 cents per cwt.

On the brighter side, he said the current federal administration is continuing the DEIP program for at least the first six months of this year, and how long after that, depends on the political situation.

He briefly discussed the export of fluid and solid dairy products to Mexico as a benefit for the U.S. for the long term, although that country's recent bout with stabilizing the peso, and providing a sense of security to outside investors is something that will continue its uncertainty.

Dever said, "This is a cyclical type of business, prices will go up and down. But in my 25 years, those good managers are still producing more and more."

He said the bottom line is that he looks to the 95 milk price to go down and to start to increase late in the year or early 1996.

The recent 10-year contract with Hershey Foods Corp. represents an increase in ADC's membership. Out of the 720 independent producers previously shipping to Hershey, 480 have joined ADC.

According to Dever, a relatively few buyers of milk represent a great portion of the market for the cooperative. The Hershey contract represents about 15 percent of the total ADC production over the next 10 years. The contract gives ADC a guaranteed outlet for locally produced milk, he said.

"I beleive the Hershey contract will pay dividends," he said, adding, "It did represent a shock to a significant number of farmers."

Soil Health Topics At PASA Conference

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Compost 'king' Will Brinton will be one of several outstanding speakers who will address issues of soil health at the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture's Farming for a Greener Future Conference Feb. 3–4 in State College.

Brinton, a native of southeastern Pennsylvania is founder and president of Woods End Research Laboratory, Inc. in Mt. Vernon, Maine. Brinton has been researching compost biology at Woods End for 20 years and has developed innovative approaches to low-cost methods of on-farm composting.

Brinton has worked with farmers throughout the Northeast in developing low-tech composting methods as a tool for improving soil health, water quality, and farm nutrient management. His expertise has been called on for a wide range of projects. He was recently asked by Prince Charles to serve on a committee which is monitoring the United Kingdom's progress in recycling and composting. He is also acting as an advisor on composting to the European Community.

Three different workshops focusing on compost will be featured at the conference. Brinton will discuss properties of compost extracts suppressing plant diseases. In a second workshop, Brinton and Penn State agronomist Dr. Doug Beegle will discuss their research findings of field studies on the release of nitrogen from compost and manures for crop production. The economics of on-farm composting, based on farm case studies, will be the focus of a third session by Brinton, Cary Oshins of the Rodale Institute, and Larry Martick from the Adams County Conservation District.

In other soil health workshops: Dr. Dan Skow, DVM, will be speaking on "The Connections Between Soil and Animal Health," a topic on which he has done pioneering research. Skow is co-owner of International Ag Labs, Inc. in Fairmont, Minn., as well as a practicing veterinarian. Skow formed International Ag Labs (IAL) with farmer Wendell Owens after the research on various farms in their region indicated a positive relationship between food value, for humans or animal consumption, and soils. Among other things, Skow has found connections between food animal consumption soils, animal performance, human health, and crop storage. The work of IAL counters the assumption that highest yields are always optimum, especially when nutrients are sacrificed and soil is depleted.

Drawing on her research and extensive experience working with farmers, Dr. Marianne Sarrantonio will be leading a workshop "Matching Cover Crops to Niches in Cropping Systems."

Sarrantonio is assistant professor of agroecology at Slippery Rock University. She has done very "farmer-friendly" research on cover crops for 18 years, primarily in the Northeast, and has experience in Latin America, Asia, and Africa as well.

"The Role of Organic Amendments in Soil Health" will be discussed by Dr. Laurie Drinkwater, a soil scientist at the Rodale Institute. Drinkwater has conducted research on the role of green manures and composts in improving soils in California and Pennsylvania.

Dairy Workshops Set

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Milk producers can now register for Penn State's popular Dairy Nutrition Workshops, scheduled for February 2, 9, and 16. The workshops will once again be offered via satellite across Pennsylvania and in selected locations in several neighboring states.

This is the second year for these highly successful workshops, attended by more than 500 people last year. This year's sessions — expected to reach nearly 700 farmers at about 40 locations in eight states — will take participants via satellite through a feed mill, on farm tours, and even inside the rumen of a dairy cow.

The workshops will combine local hands-on activities conducted by extension agents and interaction with Penn State faculty via satellite at locations in Connecticut, Illinois, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. Sessions will feature video segments, exercises on balancing rations, and discussions on nutrition-related topics by county agents, plus a question-and-answer period featuring specialists in dairy cattle nutrition, agronomy, and agricultural engineering.

Satellite lectures by Penn State Dairy and Animal Science faculty members Larry Muller, Dick Adams, Gabriella Varga, and Jud Heinrichs will focus on feeding and managing cows in early and mid-lactation, dry cows, and heifers, with emphasis on troubleshooting metabolic problems. Lisa Holden will look at basic pasture usage, and Virginia Ishler will discuss how to determine dry matter content of forages. Agricultural engineer Dennis Buckmaster will showcase Penn State's new forage-particle-size separator. This equipment will provide better analysis of silages and total mixed rations. Agronomist Marvin Hall will talk about the proper method for sampling pasture for nutrient analysis, and Maurice Eastridge of The Ohio State University will present a segment on fat feeding for early lactation dairy cows.

Participants also will visit a dairy farm via satellite, where Jud Heinrichs will interview the producer and take participants into the milkhouse and feed room. After looking at the body condition of several cows, Heinrichs and the producer will anaylze rations being used and troubleshoot to improve the herd's overall nutrition. Back in the classroom, workshop participants will begin working with specific forage and grain samples to determine the best approaches to balancing protein and carbohydrate fractions of the diet. For this exercise, they will use a forage analysis based on a sample they brought to the workshop the first week.

Workshops will start at 9:30 a.m. and end at 3 p.m., with an hour for lunch. The $30 registration fee includes the cost of a forage sample analysis. An additional charge will be made if meals are provided, but this will vary across sites. To register or for more information, contact the extension office in your county.

ADC Reports Strong

Dever said that members have to start thinking about milk less as a fluid commodity, and more as an ingredient. He said the cooperative's Mt. Holly butter facility is part of that.

After discussing some of the possibilities with the new political scene on the dairy industry, Dever said, "We believe there will be a support program. A minimum safety net is likely, but (not an income guarantee)."

The outlook for the cooperative with its physical and marketing position, and its relationship with other cooperatives, should be good, as long as quality is stressed and research and product development continue to find more markets.

"The key is aggressive marketing and new products," Dever said.

Several speakers referred to quality production and according to Dever, quality is to be stressed, especially in today's market place.

"In any industry today, you have to put out a quality product and have an efficient organization." He said that if, through member neglect the cooperative loses a quality rating it means a loss of a significant amount of money.

In other business, Herbert and Teresa Graybill were presented with a plaque honoring the family for 50 years membership in ADC. Herbert said his father John Graybill started with the cooperative and "when I took over (the farm) he was with Atlantic and my father said he had many pleasant years with Atlantic. I hope we can have 50 more."

Receiving 25-year membership awards were C. Nevin and A. Ruth Hershey, and Ray and Reba Ranck.

In other awards, Akers and J. Carl and Doris Zander received recognition for making quality premium standards for 12 straight months.

In an election of officers, because of the expanded membership due to the Hershey contract situation, the number of those nominated to be a delegate was sufficient to fill the positions, and no other nominations were made from the floor.

In the Strasburg/Paradise Local, Allan Rohrer was elected its president, C. Nevin Hershey its vice president, and Marlin Beiler as its secretary/treasurer.

Delegates for the local include Jack Coleman, Dale Hershey, Tom Lapp, and Robert Ranck. Alternates are Kenneth Beiler, Roy C. Neff, Donald Ranck, and Parke Ranck Jr.

In the Quarryville Local, Lloyd Welk was elected president, Scott Mull vice president, and Herb Graybill its secretary/treasurer.

Delegates are Randy Clark, Willie Frey, Herb Graybill, R. Charles Groff, James Krantz, Robert Kreider, Phil Rutt, and Lloyd Welk.

Alternates are Dave Delong, Ed Harnish, James Kreider, Timothy Metzler, Scott Mull, Lloyd Sensenig, and Larry Welk.

1995 Pa. Jr. Holstein Convention Deadline Jan. 25

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pa. Junior Holstein Association annual convention is scheduled to be held Feb. 10-12 at the Radisson Hotel, in West Middlesex, and promises to provide youth with an opportunity to discuss issues, meet fellow enthusiasts from around the state, participate in educational workshops and conduct business.

It all spells excitement for the junior members and adult leaders.

But the deadline for ordering convention tickets, and for making room reservations, is Jan. 25. There's not much time left.

The theme for this year's convention is, "Holstein's Heartbeat — Alive in '95," and reflects a feeling of vibrancy in the industry by the young Holstein enthusiasts.

The committee of junior members and adult leaders, chaired by David and Jill Trotter, have put together a fun and educational weekend for juniors of all ages, according to a news release by the organization.

A wide variety of activities is planned, including workshops, tours, a dairy bowl contest, dance, annual meeting, awards program, and much more.

Tours to the Grove City Outlet Mall for shopping, and to Dean Foods, a regionally significant dairy processor and foods manufacturer, are on tap. The tours cost $2. Sign-up for the tours can be done Friday while registering in.

Several educational workshops with varied topics are to be held. Dave Dowler, Mercer County dairy extension agent, along with a local veterinarian, is to discuss techniques for safeguarding show cattle, before during and after the show season.

Melinda Johnson, a Holstein breeder out of Warren County, is to give a presentation, "Marketing Yourself — First Impressions Count." In her talk, she is to stress job interview skills and being able to present yourself to the best advantage. This presentation is recommended for all juniors.

Mike Weimer, of Emlenton, a well-known Holstein breeder, is to give a presentation on understanding pedigrees and how to determine how to purchase cattle. Weimer is experienced in selecting cattle for large sales.

The junior association annual meeting is scheduled for Friday night, and some different things have been planned to "liven up" the program.

According to the news release, Friday is designed as a time for junior members to meet and relax, with music and entertainment by Magic Raymond, a magician.

On Saturday morning, dairy bowl contests get underway, with finals set for 4 p.m.

Saturday night is a dance with music provided by disc jockey Freddie Fresh, who also entertains with contests and games.

Sunday morning, the awards program is to be held at the convention center with recognition of many juniors for achievements in contests and activities.

According to the release, "This year's convention offers a Chaperone Room, so all the parents won't be boggled by kids for the entire weekend!

"Bonnie Braugh, Ellwood City, will be a guest speaker. She promises to be humorous, with a message."

Chaperones are also to vote on junior member convention honors, such as best dressed, best shopper, junior member who attended the most workshops, etc., for which prizes are to be awarded.

Another unusual addition to the convention is to be a roving video-camera person who is to record the convention so it can be shown at other Holstein activities. Junior members should be on the look-out for the camera.

Convention commemorative T-shirts should be ordered ahead of time, and can be ordered along with a request for tickets. The shirts come in five different sizes: small, medium, large, extra large and extra extra-large.

The price per shirt is $8 and can be added to the total payment for tickets, when ordering.

Junior members should be aware that there are behavioral rules in effect, and that approval and a signature of a parent or guardian is required on the request for tickets.

Rooms at the Radisson should be reserved by calling (412) 528-2501, and rooms are $60. Those calling should state that the reservations are being made in connection with the junior convention.

For more information on the convention, call the Holstein Association at (814) 234-0364. Checks and ticket forms should be sent to: "1995 PA Junior Holstein Convention" c/o Marlene Mitcheltree, RD 5 Box 80, New Castle, Pa., 16105, (412) 654-7869.

Crop Insurance Needed

RALEIGH, N.C. — Crop insurance is now required of all who wish to be elgible for most of the U.S Department of Agriculture farm programs, such as its commodity price support program, certain Farmers Home Administration loans, and the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP).

According to a news release from the Raleigh Regional Service of the USDA Farm Service Agency (the renamed Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service), "A new law has made (obtaining) federal crop insurance an integral part of USDA farm programs. Producers must buy at least a catastrophic level of crop insurance coverage (CAT) to be eligible ... ."

However, those who were enrolled in programs prior to the passage of the new law are protected from having to comply, until their contracts need renewal or amending.

The minimum type of crop insurance acceptable is a type called "catastrophic coverage (CAT)." Under this type of coverage, compensation kicks in to pay for the value of whatever crop has been lost after 50 percent has been lost. And then, the insurance would pay for those losses beyond 50 percent at a rate set to be 60 percent of the expected market price.

It is comparable to the benefits provided in recent years under the USDA's disaster program.

The cost of the minimum crop insurance program is $50 per crop, per county, with a cap of $200 being the highest cost to a producer in a county for all his insurable crops.

If the farming operation happens to go into two or more counties, the total insurance cost to a producer for all insurable crops in all counties involved can be no more than $600.

For each crop there is to be a final sales closing date set each year, by region. CAT coverage for insurable crops is to be available until then.

For Pennsylvania counties, the CAT sales closing date for apples, barley, forage, grapes, peaches, and wheat is March 15, according to the news release.

The agency advises in the announcement that there will be no additional time allowed to sign up for insurance. If it is not purchased by the deadline, there will be no forgiveness allowance.

"Producers must sign up by the announced sales closing date. Again, sales closing dates vary by crop and region, so producers should consult a crop insurance agent or the local Farm Service Agency office to verify the sign-up date."

In addition, the new law provides increased premium subsidies to those who purchase insurance above the CAT level.

"In fact, most policy holders will pay less than in past years for comparable levels of coverage," the news release stated. Though additional insurance coverage is generally available only from private crop insurance agents, having it satisfies the insurance requirement for participation in USDA programs.

"Since crop insurance has changed significantly, producers should consult a crop insurance agent to discuss their options. Local USDA and extension service staff will be trained on the basics of the new program. Once trained, they too will be able to assist producers," the release stated.

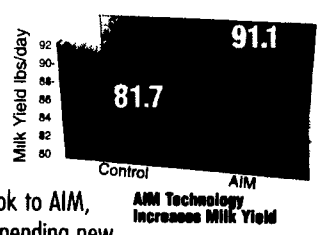
Announcing Amino Acid Impact Management (AIM), technology for better dairy herd performance

If you're constantly searching for ways to increase milk production, look to AIM, the patent-pending new feed technology from Master Mix Feeds.



Meeting essential amino acid needs

Researchers from Master Mix Feeds have developed a patent-pending technology that significantly improves the concentrations of rumen undegradeable amino acids of highly digestible proteins. AIM enhances the flow of high quality amino acids directly to the small intestine where they are absorbed and used for milk and milk protein synthesis. AIM technology provides a balanced, and consistent source of essential amino acids that lead to increased milk yields and improved lactational performance.

Optimize protein efficiency

AIM works where other feed systems often come up short. Research has demonstrated that AIM technology optimizes the supply of both feed derived and microbial amino acids to the small intestine. This balanced supply means more efficient amino acid utilization.

Ready Aim Fire

Position your dairy operation for the future

AIM is the perfect complement to sound management practices. It provides a precise feed management system. AIM gives you a solution for improving milk and milk component yields.

Call or write for a free AIM brochure 1-800-292-FEED 5111.

Youth Goat Representatives Say Goats Influence Their Career Choices

Crystal Kloiber's Goats Don't Eat Tin Cans

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

BATH (Northampton Co.) — Give Crystal Kloiber a choice to have a horse, a sheep, or a goat, and she'll choose a goat anytime.

"Goats are much more personable and friendly — especially LaManchas," Crystal said of her favorite breed.

The 17-year-old is the Pennsylvania Dairy Goat Association Youth Representative. That title is comparable to being state dairy princess for the dairy industry.

During the Pennsylvania Farm Show, Crystal showed goats in the competition and handed out ribbons to the winners.

Visitors at the Farm Show stopped by to watch exhibitors lead goats around the show ring in the large arena on the last day of the Farm Show.

Ironically, Crystal said, it was at the Farm Show that her family first became interested in raising goats.

Previously her parents, William and Carol Kloiber, had horses and rode in competition. But health reasons prevented her mother from continuing to ride. Crystal, who was eight years old, wanted to raise an animal for 4-H. She tried sheep, but didn't become bonded to it. When the family talked with goat exhibitors at the Farm Show, they fell in love with the gangly little creatures.

Now the family has a herd of 30 goats. Crystal raises LaManchas, her 12-year-old brother Brant raises Saanens and Alpines, and her mother raises Oberhaslis. Although they each show their respective breed, the family shares chore responsibilities.

About 12 of the does in the flock are milked twice daily, which takes about one and a half hours each milking.

It has long been Crystal's mom dream to have a dairy. Plans are under way to have 30 milking head by spring. Equipment and separate rooms for milking and ventilation are being installed in preparation for the dairy.

The goats are raised on four acres in the suburbs. Neighbors often stop by to watch the goats.

Although the first goat that Crystal raised for 4-H placed near the end, she has since improved her herd by selective breeding. She is most proud of a doe named Pride and Joy Teaberry, which placed best in the show six times.

Pride and Joy was a surprise because the goat did not win any ribbons when it was young. Crystal's mother wanted her to sell it, but Crystal, who had become attached to the goat, refused.

"She was like the Ugly Duckling," Crystal said of the goat. "When she matured, she won all kinds of ribbons."

The goat is now old and now

(Turn to Page B3)

Both Amy Plummer, left, and Crystal Kloiber are 17 years old and representatives for the goat industry. Both say that their love for goats influence them in pursuing veterinarian careers.

Pennsylvania Dairy Goat Association Youth Representative Crystal Kloiber says that goats are personable and friendly and not at all like the Three Billy Goats Gruff described in the renowned fairy tale.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Amy Plummer Uses Goat Milk To Raise Jerseys

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

CHALFONT (Chester Co.) — Amy Plummer is the American Dairy Goat Association National Youth Goat Representative.

The 17-year-old explained that the American Dairy Goat Association and the Pennsylvania Dairy Goat Association are separate organizations, so she did not need to win a state title before receiving the national title.

She did need to send in an application, give a prepared speech, and answer an impromptu question at a contest held at the association's national convention in October at Wisconsin.

Amy is the daughter of Dr. John and Maxine Plummer. She is the sister of Paul Plummer, who held the same title two years ago.

Goats fill a large part of Amy's life as the family has a showstring of 20 Toggenburgs, which they enter in 20 shows across the U.S. annually.

While his wife and children show during the summer months, John, a professor at Delaware Valley College, remains at the Chalfont home to care for the remaining goat herd and Jersey herd.

The Jersey calves are bottle fed goat's milk. The Plummers said that calves raised on goat's milk grow larger and have healthier hair coats than calves fed differently.

This year, Amy showed the reserve grand champion Jersey calf in the youth show competition at the Farm Show.

"My goats receive grand champion awards in almost every show," Amy said. She also placed first in the national show two years ago.

A senior at Central Bucks High School, Amy is active in three 4-H clubs, the dairy goat, the dairy cow, and the community clubs.

This summer, she attended the Governor's School for ag sciences, a five-week program at Penn State University offered to selective high school students.

"People at school think it's a bit strange to show goats," Amy said. "That's because they don't understand how much work it is and what I do. My friends at shows think it's great."

Amy's sights are set on becoming a veterinarin of large and small animals.

"I definitely want goats in my practice," she said.

American Dairy Goat Association National Youth Representative Amy Plummer raises a showstring of Toggenburg goats that she and her family show across the U.S.

Crystal Kloiber's Goats

longer wins ribbons, but Crystal vows, "I love her and I'll never part with her. She'll die with me."

When Crystal says that goats have changed her life, she's serious.

"Before animals, I wanted to be a speech therapist, but now I want to be a veterinarian and work with dairy goats and cows."

A senior at Northampton Senior High School, Crystal has been accepted in the pre-vet program at Wilson College.

Active in 4-H, Crystal has also held office as president and vice president of the goat club and a representative of Teen Council. At school, she is captain of the band front for both outdoor and indoor band, a member of Students Against Drunk Driving, and the Peace Environment Club. Crystal works part time in the principal's office by helping the school secretaries.

To become the state goat representative, Crystal wrote a resume of what she had done and what she planned to do. In June, she attended the Pa. Association Goat Show, where she was interviewed by judges.

While school friends often joke about her being "goat queen," Crystal considers it a good opportunity to educate them on the truth about goats.

Goats, she believes, have often been maligned for eating tin cans and behaving like the three Billy Goats Gruff in the renowned fairy tale.

"People have preconceived ideas about goats that are often wrong," Crystal said. "I tell them that none of my goats have ever eaten a tin can. I feel disappointed."

Since her mom is a nurse, she knows that doctors often recommend goat's milk for babies and for people with allergies because of its easy digestability.

Her mom uses goat's milk in cooking recipes — "but don't tell my dad that" — Crystal said.

While her mother has long been an advocate of goat's milk, her dad is slowly becoming adjusted to it.

"Dad helps clean up the goat pen and he comes to shows," Crystal said. She shows at Centre, Clinton Schuylkill, Kimberton, Allentown, and Reading fairs. At the national show in Nebraska, Crystal placed fifth in showmanship, which surprised her.

For Crystal, nothing is as refreshing as a glass of cold goat milk.

"The flavor is better than cow's milk," she said.

Goat's milk has a bit more calcium per 8-ounce serving than cows' milk and it's a bit lower in cholesterol.

AGRICULTURE'S LEADING EDGE FFA

Camp Entrepreneur Scholarships

GREENSBURG, PA — The National Education Center for Women in Business (NECWB), Seton Hill College, is now accepting applications from teen women across the country for its 1995 Camp Entrepreneur Scholarship Program.

Applicants are required to submit a rationale for a simple business organization that includes a statement of intent, a marketing plan, a financial-income statement and an interview with an entrepreneur. AU entries must be typed and received by Tuesday, March 15.

Prizes win be awarded in five different categories: middle school/ junior high — grades 6,7,8; senior high — grades 9-12; business plans from young women with a disability; business plans with an international dimension and business plans which focus on manufacturing and technology. Winners from each category will receive a fun scholarship to either Camp Entrepreneur or Camp Entrepreneur Junior, week-long educational programs held each summer by The NECWB. Up to an additional $100 will be included in each prize to cover travel expenses as well as a $100 gift certificate toward tuition for a friend to join her at Camp.

The student winners, their families and teachers will also be recognized at The NECWB's Third Year Anniversary Celebration scheduled for May 11, 12, and 13, 1995 at the Hyatt Regency, Chatham Center, Pittsburgh.

Coordinators of the program feel the competition gives the student the opportunity to crystallize their business ideas and aspirations. They can think about their future and see firsthand what other women business owners have had to face. Even more importantly, they can then enhance these skills at Camp.

Applications will be screened by EntreClub students from Seton Hill College and judged by a panel of small business experts. Applications will be scored on feasibility, originality, completeness, and probability for achievement.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Some of us are more susceptible to it than others. But most of us fall prey to its clutches sooner or later.

There is no vaccine or known preventive. No injections, no prescriptions, no surgery. Once it hits, the afflicted must just suffer through the symptoms and let time do the healing.

No, no, not the common cold. Foot-In-Mouth disease.

My most recent bout with Foot-In-Mouth began in late summer. An explosion of "blessed events" visited the farm, with as many as three calves a day born in the maternity pasture. We had bull babies, we had heifer babies, we had a couple of sets of twins, doubling the delivery rate.

A year prior, in addition to raising all our heifer calves, we had begun also raising the bull calves toward a steer fattening enterprise. But our heaviest calving time is late summer through fall; and by October, there were bawling black-and-white babies in every corner of the barn area. Calves in the calf nursery. Calves in temporary individual pens in the old wagon shed. Calves in the overflow pens we always need during the late summer season of plentiful births. Even some doubles, where we raised a set of two of smaller-at-birth twins together.

With the changing of daylight savings back to standard time, tending to our nursery population became a flashlight-in-hand job, since our overflow calf facilities have no handy light switches. And in the one overflow area, a sloping roof kept the babies snug and dry during a rain, but funneled the runoff right down the back of the neck of the calf feeder.

So, by mid-November, I found myself lamenting to a friend one day who inquired about the calf crop: "I've almost reached the point where I don't care if I don't see another calf for awhile."

Whoops! Foot-in-mouth!

Within a week or two, a stretch of weather arrived which brought temperatures bouncing between 70-degrees to below 30-degrees, extremes which are hard on the systems of animals. And suddenly we had calves with colds and pneumonia, a more serious outbreak of calf ailments than had hit through the entire super-cold stretch of last winter.

Having always prided myself on being able to nurse calves through most anything, the sudden and unexpected loss of a calf that had just hours before seemed healthy, hearty and was nursing eagerly came as a personal affront. My memory of earlier complaints made it worse; I felt personally responsible for wishing for a few less bawling mouths to feed. Be careful what you wish for, I remembered - you might get it.

One visit by our veterinarian, an afternoon spent with The Farmer administering routine cold vaccinations, and some stabilizing of the winter weather seems to have again blessed us with hungry, bright-eyed, bottle-guzzling babies.

Just this morning, our girls delivered two more blessed events, one heifer and one bull. Yesterday, another bull. Several more are anticipated. I've vowed to be thankful for every eager, bawling muzzle, heifer or bull, that chews on my elbow, bellows in my ear — and butts me when I'm not paying attention.

Could some researcher out there please consider developing a vaccine for Foot-In-Mouth?

And, hurry.

Kids And Snacking

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Snacking is eating small portions of food between your regular meals. Children are natural snackers. They eat only when they are hungry, and then just the amount they need to feel satisfied. However, they must be taught not to satisfy their hunger with nigh-fat, high-calorie foods low in nutrients. instead, they should be encouraged to eat food rich in protein, complex Carbohydrates vitamins and minerals.

After a difficult day in school, children come home very hungry. They head straight for the refrigerator or cupboard. They've probably eaten a relatively small breakfast and lunch, used up all of their energy in school and on the playground, and are ready for refueling when 3:30 or 4 p.m. rolls around.

Offer after school snacks that are low in calories, low in fat, and delicious. Be aware of the nutritional content of the snacks you buy and make sure you offer your children a variety of foods because no single food supplies all of the essential nutrients in the amounts a child's body needs to grow on. Eating foods from each of the food groups on the food pyramid daily helps to ensure a well balanced diet. Bread, Cereals, and other grain products (at the bottom of the food pyramid) provide B vitamins, iron, protein, and fiber. Fruits and vegetables (the next level up on the food pyramid) are good sources of vitamin A, vitamin C, folic acid, fiber, and many minerals. Meats, poultry, fish, eggs, and dried beans and peas supply protein, iron and other minerals. Milk and cheese are major sources of calcium - very important in the diets of children. Storing as much calcium as possible in the bones in younger years may help prevent osteoporosis later in life.

Make snacking a healthy habit. To make healthy snacks more appealing and tastier, try the following:

- For a low-calorie drink, combine equal parts of soda water and a favorite fruit juice and serve on-the-rocks.
- To make a dip for raw vegetables, combine 1 cup cottage cheese. 2 to 4 tablespoons milk, and dill weed or chives to taste in a blender and mix until smooth.
- Make frozen banana treats by wrapping peeled bananas in foil or plastic and freezing until firm.
- Ants on a Log - celery sticks fined with peanut butter and topped with raisins.
- Roll-up Salad spread a lettuce leaf with peanut butter. Place a celery or carrot stick in the middle Roll up the leaf with carrot or celery in center.
- Gorpy Gorp - mix together - 1 cup raisins, 1 cup peanuts, and 1/2 cup coconut

For more snacking ideas contact Evie Vitali at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension office at 717-253-5970 ext. 239.

Problem Based Learning Is Effective Teaching Style

Dr. Larry Cogburn, standing left, and a problem-based learning team take an electrocardiogram of a calf as part of a problem-based learning laboratory in a comparative physiology course. The students, clockwise from left, are LeAnne Highsmith, Robert Rohrer, Gregory Greene, Kim Gagliardi, Cherilyn Gaskill and Christina Rolleri.

CLAIRE MCCABE
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — When you get a group of students working together on a practical problem, some amazing learning can take place. That's what two professors at the University of Delaware have discovered. Dr. Calvin Keeler and Dr. Larry Cogburn, both in the department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry, took a course from the university's Center for Teaching Effectiveness on problem-based learning. They then applied the methods to their classes.

"Problem-based learning was developed at medical and veterinary schools," Keeler says. "The idea is that if students are given a practical problem and have to figure it out themselves, they are much more apt to retain what they learn."

Keeler is using problem-based learning in his course on principles of molecular genetics, designed for seniors and first-year graduate students. He acknowledges that it's more work for the teacher.

"You can't just grind out facts," he says. "The structure of DNA is not easy for students to learn. So I had to think about giving them a problem that makes them figure out the structure of DNA—for example, how a mutagen affects DNA. By figuring out what happens to the DNA, they have also figured out the DNA structure."

Cogburn uses a problem-based approach in the laboratory section of his undergraduate comparative physiology course. Each week, the students are given a practical problem with a domestic animal. For example, one laboratory requires students to take and compare electrocardiograms of several types of animals.

The class is divided into six-person teams in which each individual plays a distinct role: leader, recorder, lab reporter, accuracy coach, encourager and researcher. These roles are rotated with each project.

"The problem-based labs make students work together," Cogburn notes. "Everyone has different skills. And all can contribute and achieve. In a sense, the students are motivated to work by peer pressure. They try to excel.

"They learn effective communication skills, interpersonal relations and how to work as a team," he adds.

Cogburn says the work is both practical and applied. As students discuss the problems, just as they would in a private laboratory or practice, they learn that no one can perform all the tasks and everybody has something different to offer.

"I find that the students are more motivated; they learn to work in a group and appreciate the different skills of others," Cogburn says. "And they learn responsibility."

Cogburn just completed his third year using the problem based learning method. It has proven to be effective for his purposes. Keeler, having completed one semester of problem-based learning, says he'll do it again.

"Problem-based learning is more work, and it's tough for the students too," Keeler says. "It can be intimidating. Students can't just sit there and listen—they have to participate. But it's worth it if they learn and retain more."

Pizza Any Way You Slice It

More popular in America than in Italy, pizza is a trendy food for the '90s. While Americans' preferences for different varieties of pizza vary incredibly from coast to coast, two pizza components are virtually universal: crust and cheese.

Although pizza is considered fast food, it is also nutritious with cheese, meat, and vegetable toppings. Toppings have become so varied and creative in recent years that almost any ingredient can be used.

A week in January is designated as Pizza Week. So pizza lovers arise. This is your week to eat pizza. Enjoy it.

PIZZA CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon garlic salt
6 ounces broad noodles
1 small can pizza sauce
2 cups crushed tomatoes
1 cup grated mozzarella cheese
2 tablespoons parmesan cheese for top

Lightly brown ground beef with garlic salt, draining off any fat. Prepare noodles in salted water, according to package directions. Mix pizza sauce with tomatoes or your own tomato sauce adjusting flavor to suit. Drain noodles and spread half in bottom of large, buttered casserole or baking dish. Sprinkle prepared hamburger over all. Press meat into the sauce with the back of a spoon. Sprinkle cheese over the top and bake about 20 minutes at 350 degrees or until cheese is melted and casserole is hot and bubbly. Yield: 6 servings.

PIZZA ROLL

Use one loaf frozen bread dough, thawed.
Mix:
2 egg yolks
¼ cup oil
¼ cup canned Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon oregano

Roll or press bread dough into a rectangle. Spread egg mixture on bread dough, then roll up jelly roll style. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until browned.

If desired, lay pepperoni on dough before rolling.

Centre Co. Dairy Princess

PERFECT PIZZA DOUGH

1 package dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon honey
2 tablespoons olive oil
¾ cup cool water
3 cups flour

Dissolve yeast in ¼ cup warm water and let proof 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine salt, honey, olive oil, and cool water and mix well.

Place flour in large bowl and make a well in center. Pour honey mix and proofed yeast in center and knead.

Place in buttered bowl; let rest covered for 30 minutes. Refrigerate two hours, covered with damp towel.

BREAKFAST PIZZA

1 pound sausage
1 package refrigerator crescent rolls
1 cup frozen loose hash browns, thawed
1 cup sharp cheddar cheese, grated
5 eggs
¼ cup milk
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

Fry sausage until done; drain. Separate 8 crescent rolls into triangles on ungreased 12-inch pizza pan — points to center. Seal perforations; bring dough up the sides. Sprinkle on sausage, potatoes, and cheddar cheese. Beat eggs, milk, salt, and pepper; pour over everything. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

FRENCH BREAD PIZZA

½ cup tomato sauce with Italian seasonings
1 9-inch long French bread loaf, sliced into 2 lengthwise pieces
½ cup seasoned pork sausage, cooked and crumbled
1 cup mozzarella cheese, shredded, divided

Spread sauce mixture evenly over each piece of bread. Sprinkle sausage evenly over each piece of bread; follow with equal amounts of cheese on each piece. Bake at 350 degrees for 5 minutes or until cheese is melted. Serves 2.

While Americans' preferences for different varieties of pizza vary incredibly from coast to coast, two pizza components are virtually universal: crust and cheese.

EGGPLANT PIZZA

1 medium-sized eggplant, sliced ½-inch thick
Tomato sauce
Sliced mozzarella
¼ teaspoon thyme
¼ teaspoon basil
¼ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon garlic powder

Cook eggplant with a little water in a tightly covered skillet — just enough to take the rawness out. Then carefully place the slices on a cookie sheet or pizza pan. Combine the spices and tomato sauce, and spread the mixture on the eggplant slices. Top with cheeese and place under broiler until the cheese bubbles.

PIZZA POTATOES

1 package scalloped potatoes
16-ounce can tomatoes
1½ cups water
¼ teaspoon oregano
4-ounce package pepperoni
4-ounces mozzarella cheese

Empty potatoes and seasoning mix into 2-quart casserole. Heat tomatoes, water, and oregano to boil and stir in potatoes.

Place pepperoni on top and sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 400 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

Also, good with ½ pound lean ground beef, browned, and mixed into the recipe.

Featured Recipe

This featured recipe comes from Irwin Filler of Brookfield, Massachuset. He writes that he doesn't know how many men read the recipe column every week in Lancaster Farming, but he is one who does.

From our mail, we surmise that a generous portion of our readership are men. Sometimes their wives write, that their husbands read the recipes first and circle the ones they want them to cook. Others, like Filler, are seasoned cooks.

When Filler read the breakfast recipes a few weeks ago, he thought of the recipe that he uses to help feed about 200 hundred people at Easter.

If you need a recipe for a large group, here is one that Filler said does not get watery no matter how long the eggs set.

SCRAMBLED EGGS WITH CREAM SAUCE
(50 Servings)

Cream sauce:
⅓ cup butter
⅓ cup flour
1 quart milk
1 teaspoon salt

Egg mixture:
6 dozen eggs
1 quart milk
3 tablespoons salt
¾ cup butter

Make the cream sauce by melting ⅓ cup butter, stir in ⅓ cup flour until dissolved. Add 1 quart milk all at once, stirring briskly. Add one teaspoon salt.

Beat together eggs, 1 quart milk, and 3 tablespoons salt, using a wire whip. Melt ¾ cup butter in the top of a double boiler. Pour in the egg mixture and cook over hot water in the double boiler, stirring occasionally as the mixture thickens. When it is thickened, fold in the hot cream sauce carefully. Keep the mixture hot for serving.

The teams have been practicing for the contest for the last 12 weeks. The contest consists of 1) deciding if each of 100 potatoes is either in or out of grade - a time and accuracy relationship; 2) identifying 20 potato defects on 40 potatoes; and 3) placing 2 classes of 4 plates of potatoes. The 4-H judging process is designed to help youth develop decision-making skills.

Assistant coaches were Abe Bucher and Mark Linebaugh.

T.R.O.T.

A new 4-H horse and pony club started in the area recently. The club is for girls and boys 8 to 19 years old who like horses. You don't have to own a horse to join this club.

The club has decided on a fundraising project and has elected officers. The officers are president, Laura Henssler; vice president, Tiffany Steely; secretary, Kathleen Shober; treasurer, Kate Gehman; new reporter, Cody Wenger; and activities leader, Jared Brackbill.

During the last meeting, the members made Christmas wreaths from bailer twine. On Nov. 19 they attended the finals rodeo in Harrisburg.

The club name is T.R.O.T. (Teen Riders of Today). Meetings are held every other Thursday from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. at St. Johns Center Lutheran Church located on Rt. 625 south of Bowmansville.

New members are welcome. For more information, contact Robin Lawhorn, (717) 445-8129.

York County 4-H

The York County 4-H Club members welcomed in 1995 with their annual New Years Eve's Eve party on Friday, Dec. 30, at the 4-H Center in Bair.

More than 135 youth and adults enjoyed the festivities that were sponsored by the 4-H County Council.

The day started at 3 p.m. with a training session for officers in the various clubs. Members got a chance to learn about how to be president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, historian, news reporter, or social chairperson for their club.

After the workshops, the real fun began. Forty-four pizzas were brought to the center and the members had no trouble devouring them.

After the pizza was gone, members decorated the hall for a New Year's Eve's Eve party. The evening ended with a dance with entertainment provided by DJ by Joy.

Members of the 4-H Country Line Dance Club dazzled the audience with their fancy footwork. Instructor Cathy Brown taught line dances to all.

For information on joining 4-H, contact Mary Jo Kraft, Penn State Cooperative Extension, (717) 757-9657.

York County 4-H Members at Farm Show

York County was well represented at the Pa. State Farm Show again this year.

Returning for a second year, the York County Super Sonic Spuds Potato Judging Team competed with other teams from across the state. Team members graded 100 potatoes, identified defects and diseases, and placed a class of potatoes, all to USDA standards.

Team members include Kristy Brown, York; Missy Stough, Glen Rock; Jay Rishel, Seven Valleys; Kristina McElwain, Stewartstown; and Lucas and Rijelle Kraft, Manchester.

York County 4-H Rabbit and Small Animal Club members participated in the rabbit show on Saturday, Jan. 7, at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. Members showing rabbits included Lillian Eddinger, New Freedom, showing Rhinelanders, American Chinchillas, and a Flemish Giant. Member Rijelle Kraft, Manchester, showing Netherland Dwarfs and Mini-rexes.

President of the Club, Lucas Kraft, Manchester, showed his Dutch and Harlequin breeds as well as New Zealand Whites in the meat classes. Missy Stough, Glen Rock, showed mini-lops and has entered a meat pen in the youth competition. Karen Keyser, York, showed her Californians, Holland Lops, and has also entered a meat pen.

Ten-Year-Old Named Captain Of The Bridge

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

NEW PARIS (Bedford Co.) — Bedford County is very proud of its 14 covered bridges.

The bridges are so beautiful and such a part of the colorful history of this rural county that a local organization known as "The Covered Bridge Society," raises funds to help keep the bridges in good condition. They are often photographed by visitors to the area

However, there are always a few who, not realizing how important the covered bridges are to the area, destroy their beauty by spray painting nasty words on them. Sometimes, they personalize the bridges by writing their own names or those of their girl friends or boy friends.

It's upsetting to many of the people who have worked to rebuild and keep the bridges, and it is quite upsetting to 10-year-old Jimmy Whitworth of 125 Miller Ridge Road near New Paris.

Jimmy lives within walking distance of two of the covered bridges. During nice weather, he bikes to the two bridges where he climbs on the railing and gazes at the water below.

"It's just something I like to do," Jimmy says "I always have."

So, it was a great dismay to Jimmy to see graffiti being painted on one of the recently reconstructed covered bridges known as the "Snook's Bridge."

He asked his father, Herb, what could be done to put the bridge back to its original beauty.

Herb called the Bedford County commissioners who gave permission to Jimmy and his father to repaint the marred areas. They bought their own paint and got right to work. Mom, Donna, watched with approval.

The commissioners, Dick Rice, Kim Coon, and Gary Ebersole, also announced they would name volunteers to keep watch over each of the county's other historic bridges.

Jimmy, therefore, became the county's first "captain of the bridge."

It might be surprising to meet Jimmy and realize he is so very concerned about the appearance of the covered bridges. He is legally blind with a vision of 20/400.

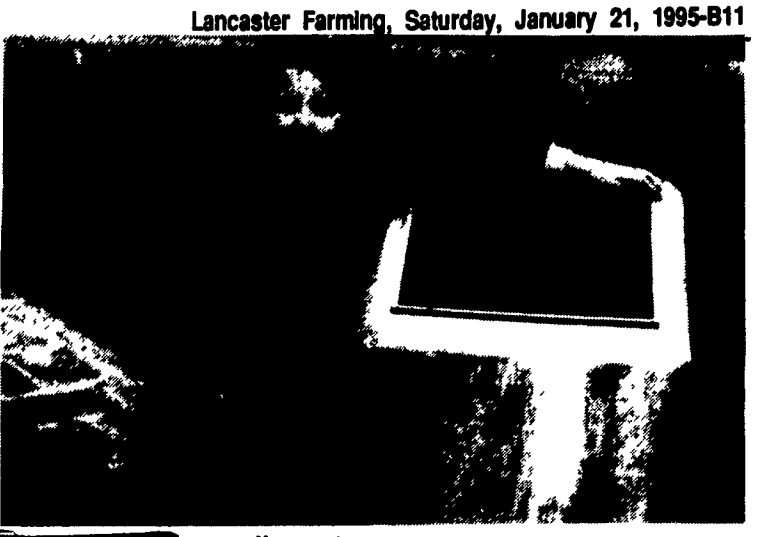
While he can see things up ve close, he cannot see at a distance. He is also color blind which means that a red poinsettia might look black to him or black might look like blue.

His eyes are also very sensitive to light.

Despite this affliction, Jimmy loves to draw and does his creations in great detail. When he draws a picture of his teacher, for instance, he will draw every detail of her dress. If drawing a car, he focuses on the smallest items such as the spokes in the wheel on the handles on the door. This is because he must look at everything from a very close viewpoint and sees all of the small details.

The condition which has caused Jimmy's visual defect is similar to one which country singer Kenny Rogers has also had to endure.

A third grader at Chestnut Ridge Elementary, Jimmy loves school and especially art and math. He has a green belt in karate and likes to shoot with a bow and arrow or a BB gun.



Jimmy is proud of the role he has played in helping to maintain the Snook's Bridge.

Bedford Lady Makes Goat Milk Soap

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) —"I get nervous when I think I might run out of my goat's milk soap," says one steady customer of Judy Burkett who milks, makes, and packages her own line of goat's milk soap.

Offered in a variety of fragrances including vanilla, cinnamon, lilac, bayberry, lavender, exotic spice, jasmine, floral bouquet, and peach rose, Judy says the soap is good for dry or irritated skin.

Milk for the soap comes from a herd of seven nubian-pygmy, alpine pygmy, and registered nubian goats owned by Judy and her husband, Lee Myres.

"We were just like a lot of other goat owners," Judy explains. "We always had more milk than we could drink. We used it to feed our other animals, gave it to neighbors, and still had a surplus. Then, we started making our own cheese and occasionally even some goat's milk butter.

"Still, there was more milk than we could consume," Judy admits. "Then, I read an article about goat's milk soap and decided to give it a whirl. Details of the soap's contents were not revealed so I had to experiment. I don't reveal my own secrets but will say that it includes animal and vegetable oils in addition to the milk."

Judy, her goats, and a llama. All of the animals mingle together to make one happy family.

Judy's husband helps with cutting and packaging in the pretty goat sketched paper also designed by Judy.

In order to find a better market for the soap, Judy and Lee opened an antique-variety store along famous Route 30.

Merchandise includes everything from the soap to handmade Christmas stockings and jewelry (also made by Judy) to stained glass hangings and lamp shades designed and created by Lee.

"We both like to work with our hands," Judy says. "I met Lee when I hired him to build a house for me. We soon found we had a lot in common. When we wanted stained glass kitchen cupboards, we made our own. We enjoy being self-sufficient."

The shop's location in an old motor repair shop put both their creative talents and seemingly endless energies to the task. It took a lot of elbow grease and

The shop includes a lot more than soap including the end results of Judy and Lee's many other talents.

'Winter Weakens Bones' Says State Alternate Dairy Princess Rachel Tanis

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) — "As the temperatures outside drop, staying healthy can become a full-time job," said Rachel Tanis, who is both Centre County and Pennsylvania First Alternate Dairy Princess.

"Experiencing muscle weakness and aching bones during the winter months is not uncommon, yet many times those complaints are dismissed as side effects of depression bought on by the dreariness of winter," Rachel said.

She believes that the solution is to drink milk.

To support her belief, she cited studies published in the "Journal of Bone Mineral Reseach," that states that lack of sunshine and the tendency to stay indoors during the winter can cause such physical ailments.

When the body is deprived of sunlight, it is unable to produce Vitamin D, which is vital to the body's ability to absorb calcium. A deficiency in Vitamin D results in the failure to deposit calcium in the skeleton, which can lead to softening of the bones and muscular tenderness. The condition is known as rickets in children and osteomalacia in adults.

Because fluid milk i s fortified with Vitamin D, it has eliminated rickets among children in this county. But adults who are not milk drinkers are at risk to symptoms of osteomalacia during the winter.

"Aside from fortified milk, other food sources such as egg yolks and liver contain only minimal amounts of the vitamin," Rachel said.

The 19-year-old daughter of Jake and Sally Tanis is always on the lookout to promote the dairy industry.

She's a busy young woman, who is a sophomore majoring in dairy and animal science and communications at Penn State University.

Because her home is only a few minutes from campus, Rachel lives and works on the family's 250-acre Ideal Holstein Farm. She owns 34 of the family's 200 Holsteins.

"They are putting me through college," Rachel said.

And, the Holsteins are building a herd for the little farm Rachel hopes to own some day.

Unlike most dairy princesses, Rachel said that she did not grow up wanting to be a dairy princess.

But she's always been involved in dairy farming and last year as she reassessed her goals she recognized that she has always appreciated the dairy industry.

"I thought it was time for me to give something back to the industry," Rachel said.

Being a dairy princesses gives her plenty of opportunities to encourage people of all ages to use dairy products.

"I love school promotions the best because they (the students) are the future and I can spread a good message to them."

Rachel also spends a good deal of time collecting dairy-rich recipes to hand out and to send to the media for publication. One of her favorite recipes is Cheddar Cheese Soup.

"My mother made up an ice cream punch recipe that everyone loves," Rachel said.

The recipe for Sally's Fuzzy Punch and some of Rachel's favorites to ensure people get an adequate supply of Vitamin D intake throughout the winter follow.

Pennsylvania Alternate Dairy Princess Rachel Tanis says her 34 Holsteins are financing her college education.

Rachel Tanis is always eager to share recipes to encourage the use of dairy products. Here, she assists in dairy promotion at the Pennsylvania Farm Show recently.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 26

Farm Women #20 met on Thursday, January 4, at the home of Nancy Axe with Vivian Trout as co-hostess. Following the refreshments Nancy read from the 16th chapter of Proverbs and the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison. All repeated the Pledge to the Flag before the business meeting conducted by the president, Nancy Axe. The answer to the Roll Call was "what you got for Christmas from your secret pal."

Freda Wimer, chairperson of the Sewing Committee set the date for pinning bed pads to be sewed at the February meeting. The Sunshine committee reported 5 cards sent since the last meeting.

For the program Dr. Joyce Vafeas spoke on the different kinds of colds and what medicines might help each one, and she explained the contents of each.

The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner" to meet in February with Valeria and Jane Ferguson at the Union Presbyterian Church. It will be an all-day sewing meeting and each one is to bring a covered dish. Also wear something red or pay a fine of .25.

Berks Society 3

Group #3 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women held its Christmas banquet at the Boyertown Eatery, Bechtelsville. Twenty-two members and guests attended. Secret pal gifts were exchanged with names being revealed and new ones chosen. The program committee distributed new booklets for 1995.

Four members of Group #3 attended the State Farm Women Convention in Harrisburg on January 9.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mary Hill, Fourth Street, Boyertown. The Society of Farm Women By-laws and Constitution will be reviewed.

Berks Society 4

The January meeting of Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 4 was held in the Bechtelsville home of Charlotte Mauger with seven members and guest Gloria Shaner present.

The kids line up for some affection from Judy.

ingenuity to get it up and running.

"We plan to have flea markets in nice weather to attract passers-by to stop and have a look," Judy explains.

"Part of our own merchandise includes collectibles we find at yard sales, auctions, or other flea markets."

Their main calling card, however, will remain the goat's milk soap which is sold separately at $1 per cake or packaged with other assorted items to make attractive gifts.

Judy and Lee take turns running the shop when they aren't working at their "real jobs". Lee is a carpenter and Judy, a registered nurse.

They also have a menagerie of other animals including a llama, chickens, guineas, geese, rabbits, two horses, an assortment of cats, a Border collie, and several turkeys.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

The other week my husband and I drove to the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. It is nice to get out of the house in wintertime and mingle with other people. We certainly could do that when we finally got there. I would not be surprised if some first-time visitors decided not to go again as many had to sit more than hour in a barely moving line of traffic in order to park.

We parked at the Harrisburg Community College and took the shuttle bus to the front entrance of the Farm Show Complex. As we are senior citizens, we did not have to pay bus fare. This year the bus was not even crowded in the morning.

My husband tells me that he attended the Farm Show in downtown Harrisburg in the 1920's. At that time it was held in several buildings near Mulberry Street. He took a baby beef to the show and says that it was a treat to get "Polar Bear" bars of ice cream. Even then baked potatoes were a featured food.

The present buildings are so large that I had to hunt for some of the things that I wanted to see. There were so many rabbits and so much poultry. The quilts in the Family Corner were especially beautiful. I simply cannot imagine doing all of that quilting as the patterns were intricate. The number of apiary products displayed also surprised me and of course I was interested in the vegetable displays.

If you got tired, there were both cooking and flower arranging demonstrations to attend. However, I walked most of the day and only saw a few people that I knew out of the big, big crowd. Sometimes, I feel like missing a year so that things will seem new to me again.

BRAZILIAN COFFEE

Yield: 4 ¼ cups

1 cup strong coffee
1 square (10 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
¼ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 cups milk

Melt chocolate in coffee over low heat in a 2-quart saucepan. Stir in sugar and salt until dissolved. Add milk gradually stirring constantly. Heat to serving temperature. Beat with a rotary beater until frothy.

CINNAMON CAFE AU LAIT

Yield: 4 cups

2 cups milk
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
1/16 teaspoon cloves
1/16 teaspoon allspice
2 cups hot double-strength coffee
Cinnamon sticks

Heat milk in heavy saucepan over low heat, beating constantly until hot and foamy. Stir spices into hot coffee. Pour milk and coffee simultaneously into a pitcher so that milk and coffee blend as they are poured. Serve in cups garnished with a cinnamon stick.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

5 cups thinly sliced onions
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
¼ c. butter
8 teaspoons beef flavor bouillon
6 -¾ inch thick slices French Bread, buttered & toasted
6 -8x4 inch slices Swiss cheese, cut in halves crosswise
5½ cups water

In large pan, cook onions and garlic in butter until golden brown. Add water and bouillon; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 30 minutes to blend flavors. Place soup in 6 ovenproof bowls. Top each serving with bread slice and cheese. Broil until cheese melts. Serve immediately. Makes six servings.

Safety Tips

Perhaps no child is as lucky the one who lives on a farm in a rural area where open fields and hills offer sledding fun and frozen ponds great for skating—But play it safe and be snow-smart.

• Sledding down snow-covered hills and across icy fields where you have little control over direction and can't stop may result in injury or death if you crash into covered fences, embankments, tree stumps or other obstacles hidden in the snow. The road at the bottom of a sledding hill presents a special danger. Motorists will have difficulty seeing you whisking toward the road on a fast-moving sled and even more difficulty stopping quickly on snow and ice if you enter the roadway.

• Overexposure to cold and the onset of frostbite can ruin a day of winter fun. Don't ignore the warning signs. Take frequent breaks to warm up so you will enjoy the winter activities more later rather than risking injury or a trip to the hospital.

• Farm ponds and manure lagoons may look safe for skating, but make sure the pond ice is at least six inches thick. Scout the entire surface for weak spots, mark and avoid them. Never skate on a manure lagoon since it contains manure solids and chemicals that do not freeze evenly.

• Muddy feed lots are another winter hazard. When entering these enclosed areas at chore time, young children, older adults—for that matter anyone—can easily lose their footing and get stuck in deep mud and then be trampled by livestock.

Chester County DHIA held their annual meeting on November 17, 1994 at the East Brandywine Fire Hall, Guthriesville, PA. Following a fine ham dinner, three directors were elected for a 3-year term: David Bartram, Penny Moore and Bob Peifer, all from the Cochranville area.

The Board reorganized on December 15, 1994 with the following officers being elected: Dan Miller, Chatham, President; Dave Bartram, Cochranville, Vice President; and Glenn Ranck, Cochranville, Secretary/Treasurer. Since the billing and payroll is now handled by PA DHIA, the office of treasurer was combined with the secretarial duties. The Vice President, Dave Bartram, will continue to be the direct contact between the Board and the technicians to resolve any problems that may arise.

In order to improve attendance at the annual meeting, it was decided to move the banquet to the second week in December for 1995 so that it is not too close to other dairy related banquets and events. The technicians met with the Board for lunch, and they reported that the conditional merger with the State has worked very well. The Board will decide in the Spring of 1995 whether to recommend to the membership permanent merger with PA DHIA, or continue the conditional merger, or return to operating as an independent county. Before June 1st, members will be asked to vote on whichever proposal the Board decides to support.

The Board will only meet four times in 1995 with meetings scheduled for March 16, June 15, September 21, and in December after the annual banquet. If members have suggestions to improve the program or concerns about the operation, they should contact one of the Board members listed below. Chester County DHIA is also interested in signing up new herds. There is a wide selection of programs available for all size herds at a cost that can suit any farm budget. Contact a director if you or your neighbor is interested in enrolling in DHIA.

ANSWER — I.M. Filler, Brookfield, Mass., wanted like a recipe for stuffed pumpkin or as one friend called it, Poor Man's Turkey. Thanks to Irwin for writing again to say that he is a man who reads every issue of recipes. After he sent in the request, a neighbor, Sandy Rawson, gave him the recipe. He shares this unique recipe with our readers who may be interested in trying it.

Poor Man's Turkey

1 small pumpkin
1 pound ground beef
1 onion, chopped
4 medium-sized potatoes
1 to 1½ teaspoons poultry seasoning
Salt and pepper, to taste

Cook potatoes, mash with milk and butter. Brown ground beef with onion, drain fat. Mix should be moist, add mashed potatoes to ground beef. Add seasonings. Cut off top of pumpkin for lid. Clean out shell. Put hamburg stuffing inside pumpkin. Put on lid. Bake at 350 degrees in approximately ½ -inch water in Dutch oven. Cover and bake 1½ to 2 hours. Cut slices to serve. Cut off shell after it is cooked.

Irwin writes that he now understands why it is called poor man's turkey.

ANSWER — Jean Nestler, Halifax, wanted a recipe for lime gelatin and cottage cheese salad that was served at the Harvest House Restaurant in Colonial Park during the early 1970s. Here are some recipes from our readers.

Lime Salad

6-ounce package lime Jell-O
1 cup boiling water
1 cup pineapple juice
1 cup small curd cottage cheese
1 cup whipped cream topping
8-ounces crushed pineapple
½ cup chopped pecans or walnuts, optional

Mix Jell-O with boiling water. Stir until all dissolved. Add pineapple juice. Cool in refrigerator until thickening starts. Beat until fluffy. Fold all other ingredients together with Jell-O. Refrigerate until it sets firmly.

Myrtle Shenk of Manheim writes that this may be made in a mold sprayed with vegetable spray for easy removal. Can be touched up with maraschino cherries for a festive look. She received this recipe from her daughter-in-law who lives near Harrisburg.

Pineapple Lime Cheese Salad

1 package lime or lemon Jell-O
1 cup hot water
1 cup pineapple juice
1 cup crushed pineapples
¼ cup maraschino cherries, chopped
8-ounces cream cheese

Dissolve Jell-O in hot water, add pineapple juice and chill. Mix in cream cheese, 2 tablespoons cherry juice or cream. When smooth, combine cheese with pineapple and chopped cherries.

When Jell-O begins to thicken, add the first mixture. Pour into a mold. Chill until firm. Float in hot water for only a half minute to loosen from mold. Turn upside down on a plate with lettuce leaves.

Mrs. Elvin Nolt, Leola, writes that it may be garnished with mayonnaise purchased from a health food store for best flavor

Delicious Jell-O Salad

2 boxes lime Jell-O
1 box lemon Jell-O
1 cup mayonnaise
#2 can crushed pineapple
1 pint cottage cheese
1 can evaporated milk
1 small jar maraschino cherries
Nuts, optional

Drain juice, add enough water to make 2 cups. Heat and stir in Jell-O. Add pineapple, 1 pint cottage cheese, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 can evaporated milk, 1 small jar maraschino cherries and nuts if desired. Let set. Serve on lettuce.

ANSWER—Velma Winters, Manheim, wanted a recipe for baked potato soup. Thanks to Carol Apple, Johnstown; Audrey Coleman, Elmer, N.J.; Miriam Worley, Hummelstown; a New York reader, and others for sending recipes for this and for Firehouse potato soup, which had been requested by Ruth Ann Burke.

Houlihan's Baked Potato Soup

1½ pounds baking potatoes
¼ pound butter
2 cups diced yellow onions
⅓ cup flour
5 cups water
¼ cup low-salt chicken base
1 cup instant potato flakes
¾ teaspoon dried basil flakes
½ teaspoon tabasco
1 cup heavy cream
1 cup milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Wash potatoes, prick skins and bake until fork pierces center easily. Remove from oven and cool. Remove skins and cut potatoes into ½ -inch cubes. Melt butter in a large saucepan. Add onions and saute over low heat until onions are translucent. Add flour to onions and butter, cook 4 to 5 minutes, stirring well until flour is absorbed. In a separate container, combine water, chicken base, potato flakes, and seasonings. Stir thoroughly to eliminate lumps. It will thicken. Add slowly to onion mixture, stirring so no lumps form. Increase to medium heat and continue cooking until soup begins to simmer. Add milk and cream, stirring until smooth and lightly thickened. Do not boil. Add cubed baked potatoes and stir to combine. Remove from heat and serve. Makes about 1 gallon. Top with either grated mild cheddar, scallions, or toasted seasoned bread cubes.

PSEUDORABIES HEADLINE UPDATE

A column to update hog producers on the Pennsylvania Pseudorabies Eradication Program.

Dr. Larry Hutchinson
Extension Veterinarian
Penn State

If you have an interest in the hog industry, you've already heard a lot about pseudorabies (PRV), a viral infection of swine that also infects other animal species.

About a year ago, a series of Pseudorabies Headline Update articles apeared in Lancaster Farming. A new series of "updates" will appear in the next several issues of Lancaster Farming to share new information and developments about PRV, both nationally and here in Pennsylvania.

Some of the topics we'll be covering in the coming weeks are:

- PRV national program status
- PRV eradication in Pennsylvania
- What are neighboring states doing?
- PRV research at Penn State
- What you can do to keep PRV off your farm
- Economics of PRV
- What you can do if PRV is on your farm
- PA-PRV quarantine herd status
- PA-PRV regulation changes.

The national program developed by the pork industry to eradicate PRV from the United States by the year 2000 made some significant strides in 1994. A five-stage control/eradication campaign is in place in all 50 states.

The state of Iowa, which has more than 50 percent of the nation's known infected herds, moved from stage one to stage 2 of the contol program in 1994. A number of states moved to stage 3 or stage 4 during the past year.

Pennsylvania remains in stage 2 but has made significant progress toward stage 3 by initiating the development of new state rules to permit the advancement to stage 3. Hard work throughout the year by federal veterinarians in Pennsylvania, working with producers and with Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, has resulted in a reduction in the number of quarantined herds by about 40 herds during 1994. Quarantined herd number at year's end was 74 herds.

Vaccine use in quarantined herds and in herds located in PRV areas increased in 1994. Most herds in the affected area have been vaccinating breeding stock, but an increased emphasis is being placed on vaccination of feeder pigs to minimize the maintenance and spread of the virus on feeder floors that may pose a risk for breeding animals as well as baby pigs. All vaccinations and most screening blood tests are of the genetically-engineered, gene-deleted type.

Recent tests in Nebraska have confirmed that the gp-1 deleted blood screening tests are as sensitive in detecting carriers, or latently infected pigs, as the traditional types of blood tests.

As our neighboring states move forward in the PRV eradication program, Pennsylvania will need to keep pace in order to maintain our markets and our competitive position in the industry. Watch for PRV Headline Updates in coming weeks for more information.

President Announces Staff Appointments

RANDALLSTOWN, Md. — C. William Knill, president of the Maryland Farm Bureau, has announced several staff appointments to the organization's state office in Randallstown.

Norman Astle was promoted to public affairs director for the state operation. Astle, a native of Cecil County and graduate of Cecil Community College, will head up the state organization's legislative activities. He will work on state and national affairs and will coordinate policy development in the state office.

Astle joined the Farm Bureau staff in 1987 as a field representative, serving as a liason between the state office and county Farm Bureaus.

In 1989, Astle was named assistant director of public affairs, working in state legislative activities and representing Maryland Farm Bureau on various state committees and advisory councils. Astle was also responsible for monitoring national affairs and environmental issues for the Maryland Farm Bureau.

Astle replaces Jack Miller, who retired from Maryland Farm Bureau following 20 years of service. Miller will continue serving the organization as a governmental relations advisor and consultant.

Joining Astle in the public affairs department is Mike Eckert, who assumed the position of assistant director, environmental resources. Eckert, a native of Baltimore, was graduated from the University of Maryland, College Park with a degree in agriculture and earth science. He will be responsible for coordinating projects, research, and information concerning environmental issues as they relate to agriculture.

Prior to joining the MFB staff, Eckert taught school, was involved in sales and marketing, and served as a soil conservationist. In May 1994, Eckert received his Master Gardener II Certification from the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service in Baltimore.

He will also work in Public affairs on state and national issues and will serve as the environmental liason between the state office and the county Farm Bureaus.

Dave Kelly has joined the Maryland Farm Bureau staff as information specialist field representative. Kelly, a native of Morgantown, W. Va., will be responsible for informing Farm Bureau members and the public on issues of concern and interest to Farm Bureau, creating a positive image for county, state and national Farm Bureau organizations, and to develop a better understanding among the nonfarm community concerning the agricultural industry.

A gradate of the West Virginia University School of Journalism, Kelly will also serve as editor of Spotlight, Maryland Farm Bureau's official monthly publication.

As a field representitive, Kelly will work Carroll, Baltimore, and Harford counties, serving as a liason between these counties and the state office.

Prior to joing the Maryland Farm Bureau staff, Kelly was assistant director of communications with the South Carolina Farm Bureau Federation. During an eight-year newspaper career, Kelly wrote for various newspapers in West Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina. His writing has been recognized by the North Carolina Press Association and the South Carolina Press Association.

SURVIVAL

In the last month, hog prices have risen from incredibly miserable to just plain miserable.

In the 20 years that I've been involved in the hog industry, prices have never been so low that producers couldn't at least cover feed costs.

But it happened this fall. For a time, producers who had good production and typical facility costs were losing $25 per hog or more. Now, with prices in the range of $35/cwt., the red ink has been reduced to $10 or less per hog.

When will this turn around completely, and how much of a rebound can we expect?

For sure, the next four months look better than the last four. But taken together, those eight months will have most producers asking the question, "How am I going to survive this?"

To that question, I have no answers, only opinions. But to me, it comes down to three factors — productivity, risk protection, and an understanding banker.

Productivity

Besides price, production-related items which have the greatest influence on profit typically include feed costs, sow productivity, and maintaining facilities at capacity.

Feed costs. The price of feed is difficult to control. But since total feed costs reflect both feed price and feed conversion, do what you can to maintain satisfactory feed conversion.

Most producers are aware of the dozens of management practices that impact feed conversion. The critical items on that list include environment, feed wastage, and health. Pay close attention to those areas. Is now the time to eliminate growth promotants or vaccines? Hopefully, those tools should be paying their way already, or you shouldn't be using them under any market conditions.

Some producers have considered decreasing the amount of soybean meal in the diet. That will help if the protein is already too high. But if the protein level is close to the requirement, any reductions in soybean meal will almost certainly impair growth rate and feed conversion, and the backfat on the hogs may also creep up. And since soybean meal is fairly cheap right now, decreasing soybean meal by a hefty 50-70 pounds per ton would save a meager $5/ton at most — savings could be quickly gobbled up.

Maintain sow productivity. Most sows will wean at least eight pigs/litter with a minimum of effort from you. Getting that average up to 8.5 or 9 takes more of your time — making sure things go well at farrowing, checking sow comfort and temperatures, and watching pigs throughout lactation and transferring as needed.

But of all the things that you do, it's farrowing management that pays major dividends. The extra pigs that you're able to raise basically go to market for the cost of feed, since the overhead costs are covered by the other pigs in the barn. So the profit on these extra pigs, even with today's depressed market, is at least $25 per head.

Maintain facilities at capacity. Under normal conditions, there is no excuse for operating at less than 100 percent capacity. That's because the same overhead expenses will be spread over fewer pigs. Decreasing capacity by 10 percent will generally reduce profit by $1 to $2 per pig.

The exception to this, of course, is when prices are so low that variable costs (feed, for example) aren't even met. Under those conditions, decreasing inventory would reduce losses in the short term. But those conditions, if history is any indicator, are rare and brief. Further, at some point, inventories will have to be brought back to capacity, which will negatively impact cash flow (especially if replacement gilts are purchased) until the 100 percent level is reached.

Risk Protection

A number of alternatives are available to producers.

Production contract. The classical contract involves a feed company covering the costs of breeding stock, feed, and some utilities, with the producer providing buildings and labor. This establishes and stabilizes a positive cash flow as long as production doesn't crash.

Production contracts at present seem to be available only to large operations. Chances of getting a production contract are slim if the operation has only a few hundred sows or finishing hogs.

Hedging. Using the futures market can help lock in a price. If the price is above break-even, you also lock in a profit. With a true hedge, you make money either on your hogs, or on the futures contract, but not both.

About 130 hogs are needed to match the weight in a futures contract (30,000 pounds). And most importantly, you'll need to know your break-even costs.

Forward contracts. PACMA (Pennsylvania Agricultural Commodities Marketing Association) has, since 1986, offered forward contracts for hogs. The program is based on the futures market but is less complicated than a hedge. You simply call PACMA, get a price for a certain month, and then deliver your hogs when that month arrives. No margin calls, and no need to watch the market to wonder if you should liquidate the contract.

Do many producers use the program? As Mike Orndorff at PACMA would tell you, it goes in spurts. Late last winter, when PACMA was offering a weighted average of $48 for 1994, not one producer signed up. Now that we've been through the October/November/December price war, lots of producers have locked in forward prices. Unfortunately, many of these prices will be significantly lower than can currently can be offered for the same periods.

A related program that gives producers a way out if prices start to climb is a minimum price contract. In this case, you establish a minimum price with the contract. If prices go up, you can lock in a higher price at any time, or you can wait and simply take the price offered when the hogs are sold. A heftier premium is needed for this program, but it might be a good idea if prices are expected to climb.

Minimum/maximum price agreements. Some packers offer these programs as a means for reducing or eliminating losses during times of depressed markets. Details differ with each packer, but for example, a packer may pay a minimum of $42/cwt. and a maximum of $54/cwt.

Marketing agreements. At least one feed company has offered a hog price in the high $40s over a five-year period in exchange for a five-year agreement to buy their feed. Roughly speaking, if the average price over the five-year period exceeds the price set in the contract, you get the proceeds.

For many producers, this program has merit. Yes, you're committed to purchasing a particular feed, and in the long you may be better off completely independent. But that's dependent upon your ability to survive the short run.

Know Your Banker

I recently spoke with representatives of four lenders that do a fair amount of lending in the swine industry: Farmers Home Administration, Keystone Farm Credit, Meridian Bank, and Lebanon Valley National Bank.

I posed the same questions to each of these individuals, focusing around survival through times of negative cash flow. And their answers were surprisingly similar.

First, when you find yourself in a financial bind, and need additional operating capital, have your act together before you show up at the bank. Know what your break-even cost is. Have a plan for repaying the operating loan. And be prepared to repay the loan fairly quickly — a year or two at most.

Second, producers that have a good production history will have the best success at getting the loan. Even those that have had production difficulties can get additional capital if the problems were beyond the producer's control.

If the debt load is approaching the total amount of equity on the operation, that can be a problem. These situations are approached case by case. Foreclosure is one option, but so is a loan guarantee from Farmer's Home.

And as producers already realize, bankers love risk protection. Production contracts are the most popular form of risk protection, but any loan will be easier to obtain if the risk to the lender is somehow reduced.

Summary

1. In these periods of miserable prices, don't lose sight of the major factors that impact profit. The items over which you have some control include sow productivity, feed conversion, and herd health.

2. Risk protection is not new. After the last few months, most producers could probably stand some risk protection. For many in this state, forward contracts, packer agreements, and marketing agreements with feed companies may offer the best alternatives.

3. Get the most from your lender. Do that by doing your homework. Have cash flows, price projections, and break-even prices prepared before you ask the banker for anything. And remember that bankers like the items in #1 and #2 — good productivity and risk protection.

WHAT IS HACCP AND HOW WILL IT AFFECT ME AS A POULTRY GROWER?

Dr. M. Hulet
Dept. of Poultry Science

Recently, more and more attention is being focused on the use of management techniques known as HACCP programs. The acronym stands for Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point. This management technique was developed by Pillsbury and successfully used by many other companies in the development of quality control programs to promote food safety.

The essence of the program is the selection of critical points in the production cycle of food, or any product for that matter, and establish quality control limits that allows for the production of the food successfully and safely, and eliminates any contaminants — physical, chemical, or microbiological. By monitoring the process and keeping appropriate records, one can be confident of producing a consistent and safe product.

HACCP uses seven principles to ensure the success of the program:

1. Conduct a hazard plan. Determine the potential dangers and hazards in the entire production process.

2. Identify critical control points (CCPs). Identify the specific factors in the process that can result in the production of unsafe products.

3. Establish CCP limits. Determine what hazard levels can be tolerated in the manufacturing process.

4. Establish CCP monitoring requirements. Establish the sampling frequency that insure product quality is maintained.

5. Establish corrective actions. Determine what action to take when monitoring shows that the process is not within specified limits.

6. Establish effective record keeping. Develop a procedure for keeping records that will allow for tracing back through the process to identify lapses or breakdowns in the system.

7. Establish verification procedures to show that HACCP is working. Develop procedures to show that problems in the process will be recognized by the system.

You are probably saying that this is all fine and it may work for NASA and for Pillsbury, but what is its relevance on my farm?

The USDA and the FDA are establishing mandatory compliance of meat processing plants for the establishment of HACCP programs to reduce microbial contamination of poultry and red meat. The program is a departure from the past efforts of "properly handled and adequately cooked meat is safe" to an attitude that recognizes that a growing number of consumers are immunologically compromised (elderly, AIDS-related, organ transplant, cancer patients, etc.) and can't take the risk of even a low level exposure to potentially pathogenic microorganisms. To this at-risk population, levels of microorganisms that would be considered normal and not a problem for most people could be potentially fatal. Therefore, HACCP programs to reduce the level of harmful microorganisms will be established to further enhance the safety of our food products.

With a procedure geared to concentrate on the processing plant, one may again ask, "how is this going to affect me and my farm?" As the processing plant establishes its critical control points, one possible area of introducing pathogens into the plant will be from the live birds from the farm. Efforts then could be directed toward why some farms are pathogen-free and others have significant levels of pathogenic organism which may not be harmful to the chickens, but could be potentially harmful to humans.

Recently, Dr. Dave Kradel, poultry veterinarian with the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, reported on a HACCP program for the table egg industry called the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP). The purpose of this program is to reduce the incidence of Salmonella enteritidis infection of laying hens.

Through various studies, it has been determined that the major route of entry for Salmonella infections of layers is infected mice, infected chicks and pullets, and contaminated environments. By establishing a rodent control program that can be monitored for its effectiveness, testing chicks and pullets prior to placement into clean facilities and proper cleaning and disinfection of facilities, it has

Post Harvest Focus Of Hort Meetings

CLAYTON, N.J. — Dr. Carlos Crisosto, post-harvest fruit scientist from the University of California, will be one of the featured speakers at the tri state horticultural meetings in Hershey, Pa. on January 31, February 1–2.

Crisosto will discuss good harvest and handling practices for peaches, nectarines, and plums on the Wednesday afternoon session of the program. On Thursday morning, he will also discuss management techniques in the orchard that influence post harvest quality of peaches, nectarines and plums.

"Other topics on post harvest management will be presented by Dr. Walker Miller of Clemson University, who will discuss brown rot control strategies, and Dr. Laura Lehman-Salada of Penn State University, giving tips on storage management and control," said Genie DeCou, president of the New Jersey Horticultural Society.

The Tri-State Horticultural Society Meetings are co sponsored by the Horticultural Societies in Maryland and New Jersey, The State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania, and the cooperative extension systems at the University of Maryland, Pennsylvania State University and Rutgers-The State University of New Jersey.

DeCou said, "The meetings will begin Tuesday morning with a session on new developments in agricultural chemistry for the fruit and vegetable grower. Dr. Turner Sutton will also discuss pre- and post-harvest diseases of apples to close out the session.

"The Tuesday afternoon session will feature new developments in electronic technology for orchards," said DeCou. "This will include computer software for pesticide record keeping, weather monitoring, cost accounting, and labor management."

In addition to a full program of talks for tree fruit growers on Wednesday and Thursday, a small fruits program will be held concurrently. Presentations will be given on everbearing raspberries, blueberry cultivars, strawberry cultivars, and strawberry plasticulture.

The sessions will also feature talks on postharvest handling on small fruits, maximizing blueberry shelf life, small coolers for shelf life extension, and nutrition for prolonging shelf life of small fruits. Dr. Eric Hanson of Michigan State University will be the featured speaker of this session. The final session of the small fruit program will focus on pest management and the economics of blueberries and other small fruit.

Running currently with the small and tree fruits program is the annual meetings of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, and the Auxiliary program for spouses by the State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania and the Maryland State Horticultural Society.

The Tri State Horticultural Meetings also feature the largest trade show for fruit growers in the Eastern United States. More than 125 exhibitors with all types of fruit and vegetable growing handling equipment and supplies will be participating at the three-day meetings.

Details on registration are available by contacting Bill Tietjen, Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Warren County at (908) 475-6505 or by calling (609) 863-0110.

Cardarelli Is Agway CEO

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Donald P. Cardarelli has been named chief executive officer and general manager of Agway Inc., effective immediately. Since last August, Cardarelli has managed the farmer-owned cooperative as executive vice president and chief operating officer.

Ralph H. Heffner, Agway board chairman, announced that the 18-member board of directors unanimously elected Cardarelli as CEO following a national search during which they considered a number of highly qualified candidates.

Donald P. Cardarelli

"We are delighted that Don has accepted this position of leadership at Agway," Heffner said. "His outstanding financial background and management experience, as well as his openness and integrity, will serve us well as Agway continues to move forward and profitably serves commercial farmers and our large rural and suburban customer base."

A native of Utica, N.Y., Cardarelli was graduated from Utica College and earned his MBA from Syracuse University. He began his professional career as a certified public accountant at Coopers & Lybrand. Later at the Pneumo Corporation in Boston, he headed a team of professionals responsible for reviewing a variety of businesses and recommending ways to improve their profitability.

Cardarelli joined Agway in 1984 as corporate director of financial analysis. He was soon named chief financial officer and then executive vice president of the Agway Insurance Group, where he changed management and refocused the business along profitable lines. In 1991, the Agway board elected him vice president and treasurer of Agway Inc., with responsibility for overall financing of the corporation, including the securities program, and supervision of the pension fund, other trust assets, and real estate. He was involved in the early disposition initiatives leading to the successful sale, in late 1994, of Agway's investment in Curtice Burns Foods and the planned sale of H. P. Hood, a Boston-based dairy foods company.

ProGenetics Populates New Operation

ELIZABETHTOWN, (Lancaster Co.) — In order to expand its number of purebred animals, ProGenetics is currently populating a second nucleus site. Willow Hill, which will be housing 1,200 purebred sows, will be utilized to populate numerous multiplier units throughout the country and Mexico.

Populated from ProGenetics' Medicated Early Wean (MEW) unit, it will feature three-site production to produce disease-free hogs with greater growth and lower death loss.

The Willow Hill nucleus has several advantages over the current McClays nucleus. Shifting from a 600-head sow unit to a 1,200-sow nucleus herd, ProGenetics' increased nucleus size will allow the company to simultaneously populate several new 1,200-head multiplier units throughout the country. Part of a large-scale operation, Willow Hill will produce nearly 25,000 pigs per year, or 500 pigs per week. In addition, Willow Hill will allow ProGenetics to build 9,000-head finishing facilities which will run single source pigs all in/all out.

Meanwhile, the new nucleus will put White Oak Mills in a stronger position to provide independent producers with an excellent source of grandparent animals, which producers can use for more economical and specialized in-house gilt multiplication.

Also, because the gilts for the nucleus herd will originate from the company's MEW program, all ProGenetics animals will be nearly specific pathogen free (SPF).

As a result of its new nucleus facility, ProGenetics will experience better pig performance records that will more accurately show the true genetic potential of its numerous American, Canadian and European lines. Geneticist Dr. Michael Miller, White Oak Mills vice president of sales and marketing, said, "The new nucleus will have a positive effect on animal health and performance, which will result in the creation of clear genetic evaluations. A three-site production scheme will create truly genetically-superior animals that will perform up to their abilities. Thus, environmental changes and management will have less of an effect on masking genetic superiority."

Located on the southern ridge of the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Path Valley, the nucleus is strategically located six miles west of the ProGenetics Artificial Insemination Center and is in an area free of other swine production or potential contamination.

Having started construction of the new unit in August, ProGenetics began populating its new nucleus in early December 1994.

shown that the number of Salmonella-positive layer flocks can be significantly reduced.

Such techniques can be successful and can produce a safer food for consumers. However, these programs must be developed on sound principles that are practical and effective. Most "preharvest" or growout HACCP programs will be based on best management practices (BMPs) combined with record keeping.

Research efforts are continuing in areas where the intestinal tracts of chicks and poults are colonized with good microorganisms to prevent the infection later with pathogenic bacteria. This research method is called "competitive exclusion" or CE. Other research shows that housing environments can be modified to make them not favorable for the growth and proliferation of harmful bacteria. When verified as effective, these new management tools will promote environments that are healthier for the bird as well as produce microbiologically safer poultry products.

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

When Planning Your Forage Programs, Remember That Your Main Objective Is To Store The Plant And Remove It From Storage In As Good Condition As Possible. The Upright Silo Has Never Been Equalled In Its Ability To Do This...

On Most Dairy Farms, Forage Quality Is The Single Most Improtant Factor Relating To Profit...

Poured Concrete Silos Consistently Out-Perform All Other Methods Of Storing And Preserving The Total Digestible Nutrients In Forage Crops...

"Nobody Protects Forage Quality Like We Do..Nobody!"

JAMESWAY DIRECT XPRESS™ SYSTEM

NEW BELT FEEDERS & CONVEYORS

Big Capacity Delivery... With All The Advantages Of Dependable, Efficient, Low Profile Direct Drive Design!

That's what farmers really appreciate about the new Jamesway family of Direct XPress Feeders and Conveyors. All models feature a dependable and efficient heavy duty industrial drive with enclosed oil bath and standard 1 2 or 3 H P C faced motors. Our direct drive design eliminates pulleys, jackshafts sprockets chains V belts and shields. The low profile motor and drive can be mounted on either side for added installation versatility.

The Direct XPress family includes
- DXF 1400 Single or Divided Lot 14" Wide Belt Feeder 180 Maximum Length
- DXC 1400 14" Wide Belt Conveyor 180 Maximum Length
- DXC 1800 18" - Wide Belt Conveyor 180 Maximum Length
- DXC 2400 24" - Wide Belt Conveyor 124 Maximum Length

X Sides Are Standard
All Direct XPress System models feature heavy 16-gauge weather resistant galvanized steel sides in 2 1/2 5 and 10' sections. We call them "X" sides because they are "X tra" strong and will span 20' between supports. And they are built to last and will stay looking good "X tra" long!

Do It Your Way!
Match your feeding layout and requirements with reversible elevating conveyors, inclines and declines without sacrificing capacity, speed and uniform delivery. All inclines and declines are infinitely adjustable up to 30 degrees elevation for textured belt and up to 15 degrees elevation for smooth belt.

Tough 1/8" thick polyester belt with PVC covering and dependable stainless steel industrial splice is a year round performer and flexes in sub-zero weather. Choice of smooth or textured belt for conveyors in 14", 18" and 24" widths. Belt speed is 230 feet per minute.

You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!
Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk
In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12 000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17 550	$22 850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850

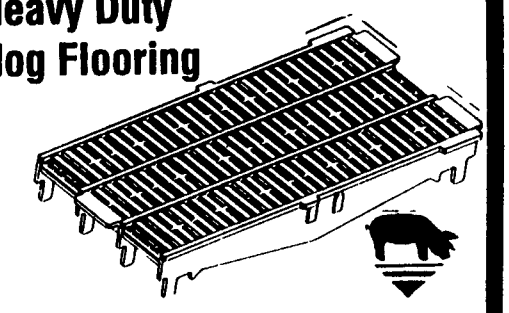
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION?

☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™

Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.
- ◆ POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?
- ◆ More piglets survive until weaning
- ◆ Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- ◆ Heavier piglets at weaning
- ◆ Better conditioned sows at weaning

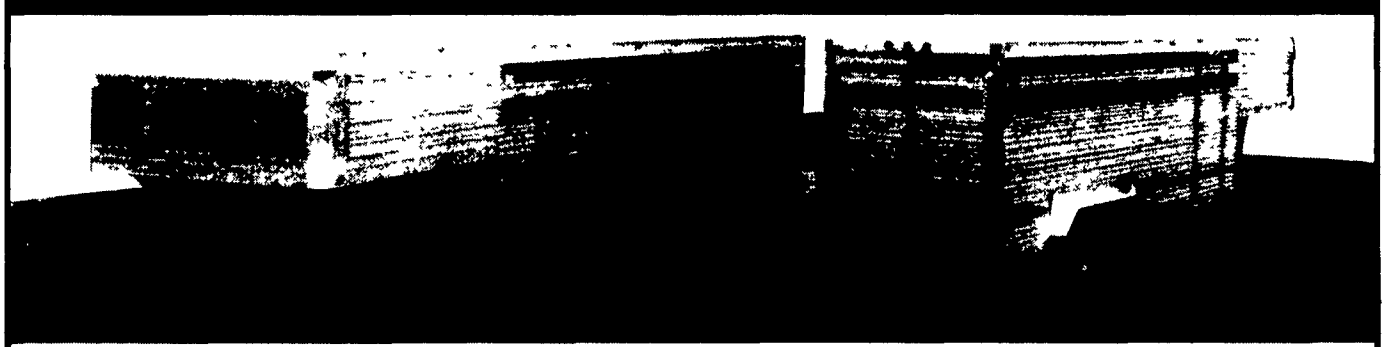
Anything Less Isn't Good Enough



If livestock is your business, Eby Gooseneck Trailers include these features to protect the livestock you transport:
- Durable all-aluminum construction with less weight for more payload
- Axles, wheels, tires and brakes that are designed to carry the weight the trailer will hold
- Gates and doors designed for easy loading/unloading
- Proven post and slat design to control airflow and easily close up for winter conditions
- Aerodynamic design to improve fuel economy

Eby Gooseneck Trailers are available in lengths from 12 to 32 feet with a choice of widths and inside heights. We offer every custom option, including stainless steel front end for great looks.

Whatever kind of livestock you transport, you can rely on EBY products to do the job right.

Eby custom-builds bodies and trailers for all types of livestock, grain and farm commodities.

Alfalfa Varieties From Ag Experiment Station

DON VIANDS
Cornell University

It all started more than forty years ago. My predecessors at Cornell, Drs. Royce Murphy & Carl Lowe, began working with alfalfa germplasm that proved to be ideally suited to the Northeast. I continued to improve this germplasm after arriving at Cornell in the late 1970's. Oneida VR was the first prominent commercial variety we released from this germplasm in the 1980's. It was our first verticillium wilt resistant variety, and still has the highest resistance level to this devastating alfalfa disease. Pinnacle, Medallion, and Guardsman are more recent releases from this material with additional genetic improvements in each variety.

At Cornell, we think it's important to recognize that alfalfa growing conditions are unique in the Northeast, compared to other parts of the country; especially the Midwest. Shallower soils, yield and stand life robbing diseases, and weather patterns all make a difference in what alfalfa varieties work best over the life of the stand.

Our alfalfa plant breeding at Cornell is built around selection of superior parent plants for future varieties. Our breeding nurseries represent various soil types typical of farms in our region. Healthy, productive plants are observed at each of three cuts in two production years before selection and advancement. Other alfalfa programs may advance material faster, sometimes with much less actual field screening. While this may produce new varieties faster, we feel our method produces varieties with pinpoint regional adaptation. This breeding success can be illustrated.

Our newer varieties, such as Medallion, are holding up well in yield trials, improving in performance as the stand ages! They have competed well in the seeding year and the first full year of production, but have really shown their disease resistance advantages over other varieties in year three and four by sustaining yield: less adapted varieties have faded. Changing our checks in New York variety trials in '94 from older varieties Oneida & Saranac AR to modern varieties Oneida VR and Pinnacle resulted in a higher "standard of comparison" for other varieties to be measured against. This resulted in many varieties from outside our region performing at a lower percent of checks or below the checks.

There are other current issues alfalfa growers need to know about to make informed variety selections. "Bells and whistles" are being touted in new alfalfa varieties that have little economic impact, at least in our region: the multi-leaf trait, aphanomyces resistance, certain pest resistances. The big five diseases of alfalfa impact alfalfa performance the most, and resistance of moderate or higher levels to Verticillium, Fusarium, & Bacterial wilts along with Anthracnose and Phytophthora Root Rot should receive primary attention. We have done this in developing Pinnacle, Medallion, and Guardsman and you can see the results in the field as the stands age.

Standability and forage quality of these varieties is also excellent. They are capable of producing forage that Cornell ruminant nutritionists tell us is nearly ideal for dairy feeding—up to 22% protein, (more than 22% is no advantage, actually taking extra energy away from production to convert excess protein for excretion), with ADF and NDF fiber levels in the 30 & 40% range respectively. They also yield more consistently than widely promoted "high quality" varieties coming out today. It's interesting that these "high quality" alfalfa varieties tout lower fiber content. We have seen reduced standability in lower fiber varieties with as little as one half to one percent less fiber. So, our direction at Cornell is to maintain standability while improving forage quality with "quality" fiber fractions instead of lowering total fiber concentration of the plant. Fiber is necessary and important to animal health & productivity.

Dormancy and winterhardiness are current questions. Cornell developed varieties are dormancy 4 with exceptionally good stand life. We find they have about the best combination of early spring and fall growth. This, along with good regrowth after cutting, is associated with Flemish germplasm crossed to other highly adapted material.

Their adaptation is proven over many years for all of Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland, New Jersey and the eastern part of Ohio.

We're working on exciting alfalfa projects for the future, however Pinnacle, Medallion, and Guardsman represent the leading edge in commercial alfalfa varieties for the Northeast today.

GEHL
Box Spreaders

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Has A Quality Gehl Spreader In Stock And Ready For Use Now At Economical Pricing!

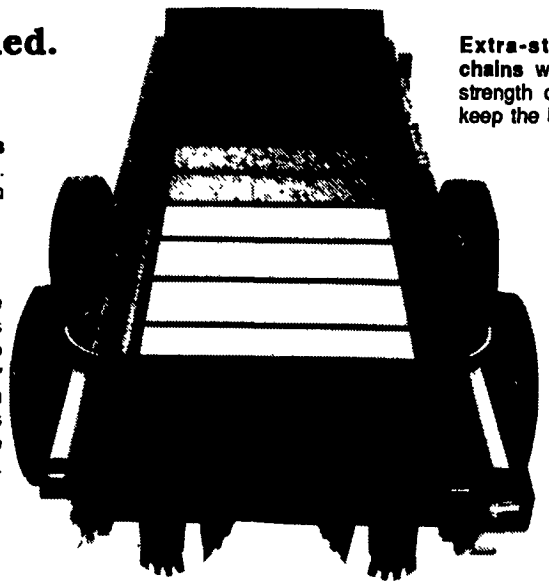
Even when it's empty... it's loaded.

Low profile design means easy loading by skid loader, front end loader or barn cleaner

Double Galvanized steel sides are corrosion resistant for long life. One-piece seamless construction won't catch material or leak.

Gehl-Tuff Flooring prevents the apron from freezing to the floor, allowing manure to slide out with little resistance. Less apron pull means less wear and tear on drives and apron chains. One piece construction won't flex under heavy loads.

Optional hydraulic endgate rests in front of the beater paddles to secure sloppy loads and keep heaped material out of the beater unit you're ready to spread. An available litter pan reduces spills in the yard or roadway while enhancing the spread distribution.



Extra-strong, T-bar apron chains with an average tensile strength of over 23,500 pounds keep the biggest loads moving.

Twelve extra wide one-piece beater paddles are symmetrically positioned for broad, uniform spreads. Paddles are fabricated from tough, 1/4" thick high strength steel. Bolt-on replacement tips are available to extend paddle life.

Oscillating tandem wheels allow faster ground speeds while providing greater flotation. They're standard on the 325-bushel and 425-bushel models and optional on the 250-bushel model

Constant velocity pto for continuous, smooth, chatter-free power transfer when spreading on turns and reduced stress on the entire drive line.

Most Mix-All owners will never buy another.

In fact, you'd probably have a hard time convincing Gehl Mix-All owners to even look at anything else. And why should they?

The Mix-All's big 21-inch wide hammermill features 66 reversible thin hammers that cut, rather than pound the feed to deliver a more consistent grind and ensure uniform mixing for a better feed conversion rate.

Gehl's self-contained hydraulic system is designed-in, not added on. It provides the precision of infinitely variable in-feed attachment control to match tractor power for greater grinding capacity. Plus you get fast, smooth, trouble-free unloading with greater reliability.

And a wide variety of options and attachments lets you customize your Mix-All to fit any operation.

(Ready For Delivery)

No Attachments Required

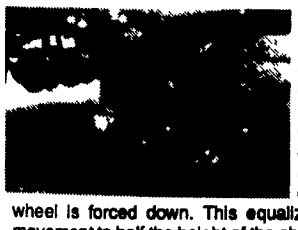
A Case International 950 Early Riser planter is designed to plant in mulch-till and no-till fields as well as it does in clean-tilled fields

Yet you won't have to add costly coulters or down-pressure springs Plus, no matter what the field's tillage condition you ll get accurate seed placement spacing and depth control for fast complete germination

The secret's in the design The exclusive Cyclo° Air metering system and Early Riser row-unit together put seed in a precision-controlled environment which results in fast starts and bigger yields next harvest

Stop by to find out more about the Case International 950 Early Riser planters the original conservation compliance planters

6 Row Planter With Dry Fertilizer And Lots Of Other Fine Features



Front Pulled, Equalizing Gauge Wheels- These are connected through a special linkage that maintains equal pressure on the gauge wheels at all times. As one wheel moves up and over an obstacle, the other wheel is forced down. This equalizing action limits opener movement to half the height of the obstacle and results in more uniform depth control and better seed placement. Example: If your customer is planting two inches deep and encounters a 2½ inch root, the equalizing gauge wheels will limit opener movement to 1¼ inches, so the seed is planted in the soil, not on top of it.

Earth Metal® Opener Blades - Earth Metal blades are known for their superior wear characteristics and strength. This is especially important to your customers who rely on the planter to do more of the tillage function in reduced tillage operations. They provide increased service life over standard opener blades.

Staggered Disc Openers- Staggered double disc openers use the leading disc to cut the soil and residue and the trailing disc to open the seed trench. This design provides superior cutting efficiency and penetration over parallel double disc openers. This design virtually eliminates the need and costs of add-on coulter attachments common to competitive so-called "no-till" planters.

Furrow-Firming Point - Any double disc opener tends to leave a "W" shaped seed trench that can lead to uneven depth control, inaccurate in-row seed spacing and germination problems. To eliminate these concerns, the Early Riser row unit uses a furrow firming point to remove the seed trench "W's and leave a well-defined "V" trench bottom.

NOTE: Some competitors have tried to tell your customers that the furrow firming point compacts the soil and reduces germination, but this is not true. The furrow firming point isn't as wide or deep as the double disc openers that actually open the seed trench. A rolling disc opener creates a water-wheel effect with the loose soil it's moving. Some of this loose soil falls back into the just-opened seed trench. The furrow firming point removes this loose soil.

Two New Knight ProTwin Heavy Duty V Type Manure Spreaders In Stock At Binkley & Hurst Bros. For Immediate Delivery

Retire Your Current Spreaders!

The 8000 Series ProTwin Slingers can handle a wider range of materials than any other spreader . . .

With the patented twin auger design, material circulates inside the unit This unique action helps keep the load level during normal operation as well as during start-up, fine spreading, and closed-door turns

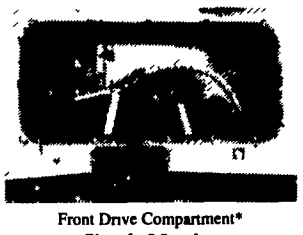
As a result of the twin auger system and the steep angle sides, material bridging and excess forward movement of material are virtually eliminated, even in pen packed and sticky feed lot material

Examine the material flow in the illustration below and note that the left auger moves material forward to the discharge hammers The slightly raised right auger moves the material rearward while keeping the left auger evenly charged with material It is this patented circulating action that makes the ProTwin so effective in handling the toughest material encountered in most applications

Twin Auger Design History

The first ProTwin model, the Industrial 8030 unit, was introduced in the summer of 1993 The total acceptance of the ProTwin Slinger by agricultural and industrial operators in handling the toughest waste material has been phenomenal

Originally, the 8030 ProTwin was targeted for industrial use Today, the same design has been adapted to smaller models to meet the material handling needs of most applications All of these models handle a wide range of materials, from tough pen pack and sticky feed lot material to slurry types of manure, as well as difficult industrial materials



Front Drive Compartment*

Simple Massive Reduction Drive

Each of the ProTwin models is designed for maximum, high torque output The fully sealed front oil bath enclosures help assure that chains and sprockets remain clean and well lubricated The auger and expeller shafts are sealed to help eliminate oil contamination Polyethylene-type spring loaded chain tighteners are used on all driveline chains for positive alignment and long life Bearings can easily be greased through the external grease banks without removing the front drive shield Splined shafts have been used in all high-torque areas to provide added strength and reliability

PTO Driveline

Constant Velocity PTO with Overload Clutch

Both 540 and 1000 RPM drivelines incorporate a constant velocity joint to provide a smooth transfer of power from the tractor to the unit. This relieves uneven stress on the drive train during normal turns and during operation over uneven terrain The overload clutch provides protection for the expeller shaft and initial drive components (There is no shear pin in the expeller drive)

Forged-Steel Hammer

Each hammer has a nylon bushing and a replaceable manganese steel wear plate

Hammer Discharge

Patented Free Swinging Hammer Expeller

The expeller on all ProTwin models features 15 forged steel hammers mounted on a 2 1/2" shaft The hammers pivot on 5/8" bolts with nylon anti-seize type bushings that allow free movement The expeller rotates at over 800 RPM allowing each eight pound hammer to swing down into the material, peeling it off and slinging it underhand in a fine spread pattern with no clumps The 3" wide, free swinging hammers absorb shock and tolerate most foreign objects Each hammer is faced with a work-hardening manganese steel wear plate for longer life and low cost replacement The adjustable shroud allows easy hammer clearance setting for optimum spread pattern width This proven hammer expeller design enables fine spreading control and material calibration through the combination of the hydraulic door opening and ground speed

Rear Drive Compartment*

The right auger is driven at the rear and is shear pin protected Bearings, chains and sprockets are easily accessible for routine maintenance

Shields removed for illustration only*
Do not operate without shields in place and functioning

TOW AWAY SPECIAL!!

OUR STANDARD TRACTORS AREN'T.

Kubota M-30-Series tractors range from 44-76 PTO horsepower. So they're big enough to do all kinds of chores around a farm. And they're loaded with standard features.

For example, wet disc brakes, hydraulic draft, position and combination implement control. Power steering and direct fuel-injection also come standard. You can choose a 2- or 4-wheel drive model.

It's easy to see why we say Kubota standard tractors aren't. They've got all the features you need to take on a big workload. In fact, the only thing small about 'em is the price.

Come in soon and take a look at our new standards.

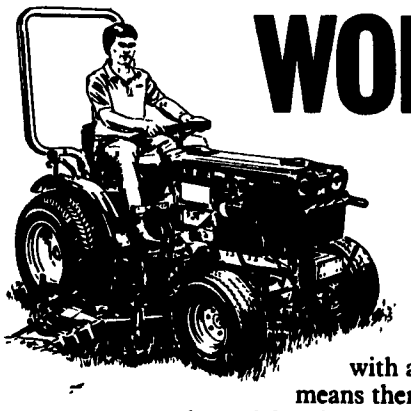
WORKER B



Nothing works harder than our B7100 HSD tractor. From home use to commercial applications, this 16 HP tractor is just right for all kinds of jobs.

The B7100 HSD comes with a hydrostatic transmission that means there are no gears to shift. Press your toes on the pedal and you go forward. Put your heel down and you back up. Simple.

This four-wheel drive compact tractor is powered by a Kubota liquid-cooled diesel engine. Mid and rear PTO plus hydraulic three point hitch provide great implement selection to perform many chores.

So if you're looking for a hard worker, look no further than Kubota's worker B7100 HSD tractor.

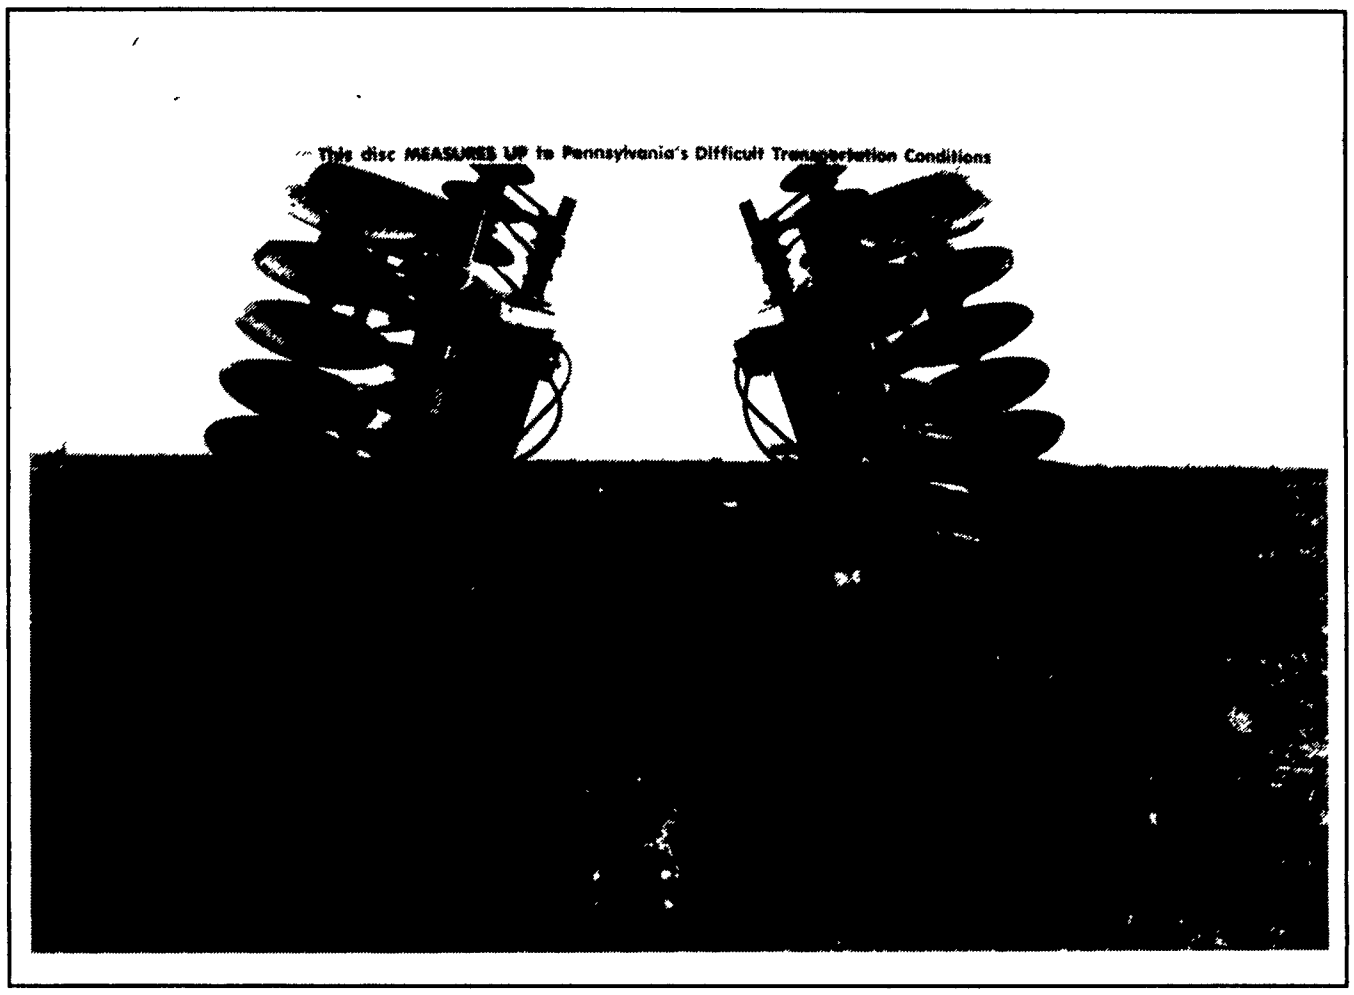
KRAUSE CONSERVATION TILLAGE

ROCKFLEX DISC HARROWS

Conserve Your Soil...



KRAUSE PLOW CORPORATION has always been THE LEADER in building CONSERVATION TILLAGE systems designed to prepare a level seedbed in all types of soils and field conditions...

- From Krause you've always expected a superior job of cutting & finishing to produce top crop yields.
- Now that the Government has dictated you increase your crop residue, KRAUSE has responded with conservation blades that will increase your crop residue over older discs.
- And you still get engineered dependability just like you always have with KRAUSE.

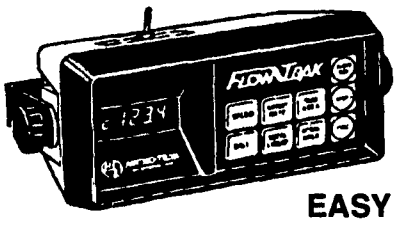
FLOW-TRAK™ SPRAYER MONITOR

INCREASE THE ACCURACY OF YOUR SPRAYER.
SAVE TIME, MONEY AND CHEMICALS.
HELP PROTECT THE ENVIRONMENT.



The economical, easy-to-use system that thousands of farmers and custom applicators have chosen to reduce waste and achieve better, more consistent results.

EASY TO INSTALL!

Call For Price And Availability

With the price of chemicals, impact on yields, and growing concern for the environment, no farmer or custom applicator can afford to rely on guesswork. Even with a properly calibrated sprayer and years of experience, costly application errors can occur due to inaccurate ground speed measurement and undetected variations in sprayer output.

The Flow-Trak sprayer monitor gives a clear picture of performance. Key spraying functions are monitored with the same precision provided by our top of the line control systems. With the touch of a button, the operator can view ground speed in miles per hour, gallons applied per acre, total gallons sprayed, acres worked and distance traveled.

MF 3120T TRACTOR

Open platform version of the MF 3120T provides a value-priced alternative when a cab is not essential.

MASSEY FERGUSON®

Open platform model now available.
Open platform configuration offers an unobstructed view of work areas to the front, sides and front axle area. Semi-flat floor deck provides plenty of leg room both under the pedals and between the seat and dash column. Deluxe spring suspension seat is vinyl covered to resist the elements. Seat adjusts six different ways to suit operator's needs. FOPS sun shade, protecting the operator from the sun's heat and falling material, is standard equipment on the open platform model 3120T. Grab handles and nonskid steps aid in getting on and off the tractor.

Cab model provide comfort and convenience.
Quiet, comfortable cab holds sound levels to the mid-70 dBA range, among the quietest in the industry. Two-door cab entry ensures easy access from either side. Select from a pneumatic swivel seat or a wide, fixed pneumatic seat, to provide you with the comfort demanded by farmers spending long hours in the field.
